PREFACE.

This beginning of Lauffer History is the outgrowth of a pamphlet on the Lauffer Family, issued July 4, 1902, at a Reunion held at the home of H. Z. Lauffer, north of Jeannette, Pa.

It has been the purpose of the compilers of this brief History to give accurate data of all the branches of the Lauffer Family, for both sons and daughters, that have sprung from Father Christian. We have spared neither time nor expense in searching archives, visiting and letter writing.

When people failed to answer letters, we were unable to proceed; they have themselves to blame for omissions. Where branches of the family did not organize and supply data, such omissions are beyond our control.

There will doubtless be found many errors in this book; and many Lauffer relatives there are, who are not mentioned. For the correction of errors, and the insertion of data not as yet supplied to us, we will esteem it a great favor if you will let the facts be known to any member of the Committee. We will make it satisfactory in a later edition. It is urged that Christian Lauffer's descendants everywhere organize their respective branches of the family, and send in all data, preferably to the Secretary, Dr. Chas. A. Lauffer, Manor, Pa., Westmoreland Co. He will see that it gets in proper hands for insertion in the next edition of the History.

“We are among those who believe that any who care not about their earthly origin, care little as to anything higher.”

THE LAUFFERS IN EUROPE.

The Lauffers are of the Reformed faith, and lived in the Rhine country, in the old Palatinate; and Heidelberg, its capital holds a place in family traditions. When the valley of the Rhine was devastated by French armies, the Palatines sought shelter in Switzerland, Germany, Holland: from the latter country many went to England, and thousands of them found an asylum on these shores, especially in Pennsylvania.

That Laufers have dwelt in Nuremburg is shown by the cuts of souvenir postals that are herein contained. These postals were sent to John N. Lawfer, of Allentown, by Mr. John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, who was a personal friend of the late Wm. R. Lawfer, of Allentown.

It behooves us to look up our family tree when in Europe. That there are good Lauffers still on the Continent is shown by the following personal letter, which we produce in full, by courtesy of John N. Lawfer, of Allentown:

Weim, Mch. 2nd, 1905.

Dear John:—Herrn Askar von Lauffer was to see me to-day after receiving a letter from Chas. A. Lauffer (is this your son?) and I had quite a chat with him. The letter was written to his father, who is 81 years old, so he could not come, and so his son Askar came. It appears from his talk that his branch of the family came from Switzerland, Canton Argon, who were under the rule of the Hapsburgers, the present Austrian reigning house, and went into Austria somewhere near the border of Germany. The Richter order of the Iron Crown was given to his father in May 1, 1884, when his father went into pension, so only this man and his sons are entitled to the von. He told me that sometime in 16 or 1700 the Lauffers lost their old order, probably this man's grandfather, three or four times removed. Their ancestors took part in some revolution and came out on the losing side, consequently lost his title and who knows his head, or maybe the one who went to America. Gaston, the present owner of the title, has five sons—

Gaston Ritter von Lauffer, aged 55, is Colonel at Kraskan.

Julius Lauffer, aged 51, is major.

Alfred Lauffer, aged 49, is an official of railroad at Groz.

Arthur Laufler, aged 43, is in a Gun Factory, at Steier.

Askar Lauffer, aged 48, 1st Lieutenant in pension, living with his father.

He is quite a large man but not in robust health, think he is a little paralyzed, has a little halt in his speech and in his walk, but has a familiar face and when I told him you folks were all large he said, "Yes, that is the Schweitzer mark, we are all large." He does not have a perfect history, at least it does not go back to Wein as far as you say—1713—but somewhere in early 1800. It looks to me as if you might possibly be from Schwitz and when you find from what place in the Schwitz he came from, write to the town clerk and he perhaps can tell when your branch left for America. He told me there is a Prof. Lauffer in the Hoch school in Prog Austria but did not think he was any relation of theirs. A letter there might give you some trace. This man Askar has a full face although darker hair than you gentlemen at Allentown, but as far as the round face goes he might be a relation. He will write to you some time soon after he has his data all together. Said it would please him to get the History from the American side, so told him it would no doubt give you lots of pleasure to do it. I hope he will give you what you want. With best wishes to you and your Wife, Am as ever,

Your friend,

In Weber's Outlines of Universal History, page 237, Paragraph 407, we read: "For the purpose of creating a diversion in favor of the Turks against the superior power of Austria, Louis

AUSSERE LAUFERGASSE, Lanfer Street.

XIV. took advantage of affairs relating to the inheritance of the Palatinate and the election of the archbishop of Cologne, to engage in the third war, called the war of Orleans. When the elector Charles died without male issue, and the land fell into the collateral Catholic line of Pfalz Neuburg, Louis XIV. claimed not only the movable property, but also the immovable estate, as the inheritance of Elizabeth Charlotte, the sister of the deceased Elector, and the wife of Louis's brother, the duke of Orleans, and when this claim was not admitted, he marched an army upon the Rhine. For the purpose of rendering it impossible for the enemy to penetrate into France, Louvois, the hard-hearted minister of war, gave command for creating a desert between the two kingdoms by devastating the banks of the Rhine. Hereupon, the wild troops fell like incendiaries upon the flourishing villages of the Bergstrasse, the rich cities on the Rhine, and the blooming districts of the southern Palatinate, and reduced them to heaps of ashes. The shattered tower of the castle of Heidelberg is yet a silent witness of the barbarity with which Melac and other leaders executed the commands of a merciless government. Towns and villages, vineyards and orchards, were in flames from Flaardtge birge to Nahe: in Mannheim, the inhabitants themselves were obliged to assist in destroying their own buildings and fortifications; a great part of Heidelberg was consumed by fire, after the bridge of Neckar had ben blown up: in Worms, the cathedral with many of the dwelling houses became the prey of the flames; and in Spire, the French drove out the Citizens, set fire to the plundered city and the venerable cathedral, and desecrated the bones of the ancient emperors."

LAUFFERS IN AMERICA.

Near Straasburg on the Rhine in the state of Baden ~~Baden~~ is a town named Buhl, and near Buhl is a village named Lauffier. We are informed it is a town of 400 inhabitants. Whether our common forefather came from this village or not we do not know, but he was certainly a Palatine, who for freedom of conscience and personal safety sought an asylum in Pennsylvania.

As a digression, it may be in order to mention the consternation that the arrival of so many Germans in Philadelphia evoked among the Quakers: for it is a matter of well authenticated History that at the outbreak of the American Revolution, the German population in Pennsylvania outnumbered the English, Scotch, Irish and all others combined.

We copy from p. 47, Rupp's 30,00 names: "At a meeting of the Board of the Provincial Council held in the Court House in Philadelphia, Sept. 21, 1727, 109 Palatines appeared, who, with their families, numbered about 400 persons. These were imported into the Province in the ship William and Sarah, William Hill, master, from Rotterdam, last from Dover, England, as by clearance from officers of His Majesty's Customs there. The said master being asked if he had any license from the Court of Great Britain for transporting these people, and what their intentions were in coming hither, said that he had no license or allowance for their transportation other than the above clearance, and that he believed they designed to settle in this province. (Col. Rec. Vol. III., p. 233).

☞ "All male persons above the age of 16 did repeat and subscribe their names or make their mark, to the following Declaration:"

"We, subscribers, natives and late inhabitants of the Palatinate upon the Rhine, and places adjacent, having transported ourselves and families into the Province of Pennsylvania, a colony subject to the crown of Great Britain, in hopes and expectations of finding a retreat and peaceable settlement therein.

"Do solemnly promise and engage, that we will be faithful and bear true allegiance to His present MAJESTY, KING GEORGE THE SECOND, and his successors, Kings of Great Britain, and will be faithful to the proprietor of this Province, and that we will demean ourselves peaceably to all his said Majesty's subjects, and strictly conform to the Laws of England and of this Province to the utmost of our power, and the best of our understanding."

This oath and the registration is necessitated makes it easier for us German Americans to trace our ancestry.

Among the arrivals of Lauffer we note: (Ruff's 30,000 names p. 260) Sept. 23, 1751. Schiff Neptun, Captain James Wier, von Rotterdam, Uber Cowes,—154 Reisende, Michael Lauffer, and J. Michael Lauffer, p. 341, Vol. XVII. Penn'a Archives, 2nd series. Mathias Lauffer, qualified Sept. 25, 1751. Imported in the Ship Phoenix, Capt. John Spurrier from Rotterdam, last from Portsmouth, p. 343, Christian Laufner, ship Phoenix, John Spurrier, Captain, from Rotterdam, last from Portsmouth, Qualified Sept. 25, 1751. p. 384 Johannes Lauffer, imported in Ship Edinburgh, Capt. James Russell, from Rotterdam, last from Portsmouth, England. Qualified Sept. 14, 1753.

(The spelling of our name has been in a fluid state, liable to great individual and family variation, as succeeding pages will show).

The above Christian Laufner may be our common ancestor, or the father of our Christian Lauffer may have come to these shores before the registration of 1727 began.

The old records show other Lauffers. P. 232. Vol. I., Penn'a Archives 3rd series, Lawrence Laufer, former husband of Margaret Long, who possessed land on the Conewago (a creek flowing west into the Susquehanna River, near Harrisburg): 1746 he had the land surveyed, 2 acres were cleared, for which he had no deed; "and the governor determines that having regularly applied and obtained a survey, ought to have it confirmed."

We discovered in the office of the Register of Wills, Lancaster County, the original document, being the

In the pioneer days of early marriages and large families, it was necessary to do no more than occupy the land you desired, have it surveyed and pay a nominal price for it to the proprietors of the Province. It is conceivable that this Lawrence Laufer left a large family; the Conewago separates Lancaster from the present Dauphin County, and one son (Conrad) moved to Lancaster where he died without heirs; and that another son (Christian) moved to the foot hills of the Blue Ridge, and has become the father of a multitude.

That Christian is the name of our common ancestor we know from the centenarian John Lauffer, who visited all his uncles; and we have his word confirmed from five other independent sources. But which Christian of the two named we leave to your choice, as we can find no records to help us out.

CHRISTIAN LAUFFER.

P. 117 Vol. XXVI., Penn'a Archives, 3rd Series. We are here informed that Nov. 13, 1771 Christian Lauffer bought 40 acres of land in the County of Northampton.

He was at this time a middle-aged man, with married sons and daughters. Within the next few years the migration into Westmoreland County carried several of his married children westward, and he followed in 1774 taking his whole family, except Peter. He had six sons and five daughters.

Christian Lauffer was born in 1730 and died in 1800 (approximately). He is buried in the old Bash Cemetery, near Pleasant Unity, but no tombstone marks his grave. The early settlers had tombstones brought from across the mountains—300 miles over fearful roads. And when these were not secured, sand stone slabs with names and dates cut on with a chisel, were used as grave markers. These time soon effaced, hence our inability to know his age, except, approximately, through court house documents.

The privations and poverty of these early settlers was extreme. Salt had to be brought from the East. Wheat had to be taken to the Monongahela to be ground, at first. The markets were far distant. The Indians troublesome. There was a constant struggle to pay for the land—and land hunger helped to keep him and his sons in poverty.

We know from tradition (my grandfather, Jacob F., heard it from his father, Henry, Jr.), (John, Jr., the centenarian from his father, John, Sr.), that Christian Lauffer lived near Pleasant Unity, but from land transfers we do not know definitely which are his, and which are his son Christian's.

From wills of Northampton County, p. 182, Will Book No. 1, John Deter, Sr., of Morestown, under date of May 12, 1772, makes a will, leaving property to his wife and nine children. His son, John, is executor, and the witnesses are his wife, Elizabeth, John Egodius, Adam Marsch, and Christian Laffer. Hence the date 1774, as the year of his migration given us by the venerable John Lauffer, we accept as approximately correct.

RELATIONS TO CHURCH AND STATE.

The oldest Lauffers belonged to the Reformed Church, and were loyal to the God of their Fathers. This was the State Church of the Palatine. They have been a churchly people, and those not in the Reformed church have united with other protestant denominations, as Lutheran and Presbyterian: they are known as a God-fearing and a Church-loving people.

Christian Lafter was a zealous patriot; his son Adam served under Washington, and Peter, being too small of stature to bear arms in the service, was set to work during his term of enlistment serving his country as a shoe maker. Henry is enrolled among the "Rangers of the Frontiers" 1778-1783 for Westmoreland County, (Penn'a Archives Vol. XXIII. p. 226, 3rd series). John was under Captain Bonnet, of Mt. Pleasant, and joined in pursuit of Indians who had murdered families along Beaver Run. Christian Jr., and Barthol (who preceded Christian the pioneer, into Westmoreland County), were among the defenders of the Drumm Block House, south of Greensburg. The whole family was concerned in the fight for freedom. And in the War of 1812, the Mexican and Civil Wars, there were many to respond.

The power of the Indians was broken on August 5th, 1763, near Harrison City, Westmoreland Co., by Colonel Boquet. The Indian Chief Pontiac in that year led the tribes north of the Ohio against the English forts from Detroit to Ligonier. Col. Boquet was sent to the relief of the forts of Western Penna. and having raised the siege of Ft. Ligonier, he marched with a force of 500 Scotch Highlanders and Colonial Volunteers to the relief of Ft. Pitt. En route he was drawn into an Indian ambuscade. Darkness saved his army from terrible defeat. Next day he feigned retreat, and drew the Indians into an ambuscade, and finally routed them with great slaughter. The mighty Pontiac's grand dream of Indian Empire was racked when his army was crushed and scattered at Bushy Run.

Yet petty Indian incursions, murders and theft, were rife until after the War of 1812.

In 1771 the British in Canada projected an expedition against Ft. Pitt. They were accompanied by Indians and Tories. Reinforcements for Ft. Pitt deterred them from attacking that stronghold, but they divided into small parties, and these detached bodies fell on defenseless points along the western frontier. One such mongrel band, numbering about 100 Tories and Indians was sent against Hannastown, July 13, 1782. The settlers escaped within the palisades of the fort, but the town was burned. This was then the county seat of Westmoreland.

Gen. Harmar was defeated in Ohio in 1790. Col. Christopher Truby, of Greensburg, accompanied him—the latter a relative of the Lauffers. Gen. St. Clair on Nov. 4, 1791, was defeated in the battle of the Meigs. “Waynes victory at the battle of Fallen Timber, 1795, forever broke the Indian power and gave peace to the Westmoreland frontier.”

We can be proud of our hardy pioneer ancestors, who crossed the Alleghenies to hold the marauding Indians in check, to build homes and protect the western outposts in the troublous days of the American Revolution. Historians are slow to realize what strategic work these Germans did, for the land of their adoption, in the throes of its birth: their industry and enterprise cleared farms and built homes, and produced provisions for themselves and the inhabitants of the fort towns. And their bravery helped crush the Indian power; Gen. Boquet was Swiss-German, as were many of the men under his command. They helped defend Ft. Ligonier, Fort Drumm, Fort Walthour, Fort Hannastown, Fort Pitt from the merciless savages and Tories in the British Service. Had these outposts been lost in the American Revolution, our country's claim to the Ohio and Mississippi would have been less valid. For their retention, some honor is due our hardy German ancestors.

The Lauffers of the past have been aggressive in business, prudent, industrious, honest. They have been useful in church and state. It is up to us to prove ourselves worthy scions of noble ancestors.

THE DAUGHTERS OF CHRISTIAN, THE PIONEER.

Our efforts thus far have been confined to securing the family records of the five sons of Christian, the Pioneer; the sixth, Adam, was broken in health by his service under Gen. Washington and died soon after the Revolutionary War was over. We will make brief mention of the five daughters of Christian, the pioneer.

We have our information from Catharine, youngest daughter of John, Sr., who is in perfect, mental health, and in powers of memory is not inferior to her brother, John, the centenarian.

Catharine(?) I. Elizabeth, married to Frederick Rice. They resided near Pleasant Unity, Westmoreland Co., and later removed to Ohio. Grandmother Waugaman never saw this aunt; Elizabeth died many years before her husband.

II. Susanna, whose husband's name was Simon Drumm, farmer, and proprietor of one of Greensburg's first hotels. She lived with her children after her husband's death, especially with Simon, the Greensburg merchant. Gen. Richard Drumm, of Washington, D. C., retired army officer, now in his eighties, is a son of Simon Drumm, Jr., and grandson of Susanna Laffer. Grandmother Waugaman recalls a visit Simon Drumm and his son, Simon, made (about 1840) to her father's, John Laffer, Sr.

III. Catharine, wife of Jacob Christman. She lived near Pleasant Unity, Westmoreland Co., all her life time. She left a large family, the record of which has not as yet been secured.

IV. Mary Laffer, married to Wentzell, of Millersdale, Westmoreland Co., Pa., where some of her grandchildren still reside.

V. Magdalenna, the youngest, married to John Bash. They lived along the Kiskiminetas River, on the tract of land that Adam Laffer purchased, then sold to his father, Christian. See Land Transfers, vol. 8, p. 526, office of Recorder of Deeds, Westmoreland County, Pa.

AN INTERVIEW WITH GEN. RICHARD DRUMM.

On the evening of Sept. 9, 1904, our Secretary interviewed Gen. Richard Drumm, veteran of the Mexican and Civil Wars, while he was visiting his sister, Miss Emily Drumm, of Greensburg.

The General's father was Simon Drumm, the well-known merchant of Greensburg, of 50 years ago, and his grandfather was Simon Drumm, Sr., who was married to Susan Lauffer, daughter of Christian, the Pioneer.

The General says that his grandfather and others of the connection came into Westmoreland in 1770. The delayed growth of Western Pennsylvania was due to disputed sovereignty over the regions west of the Alleghenies, between the colonies of Virginia and Pennsylvania. Settlers had to pay taxes to both governments, and received protection against the Indians from neither. When the dispute was settled in favor of Pennsylvania, the stream of emigration from the Eastern counties set in, and the land was acquired by settlers under Penn Grants. As to protection from the Indians, the Quakers forced the frontiersmen to attend to that matter themselves.

On the farm of Simon Drumm, just south of Greensburg, a block house, built of logs and stone, was constructed, and with long, tin horns the settlers were warned of the approach of bands of savages, from Kittanning and towns on the Kiskiminetas.

This fort was large enough to include the house and spring, and provisions were here stored so that they were able to endure the siege; men with their wives and children took refuge in the Drumm Block House, when the Indians came down upon them. It was not until after the defeat of the Indians by Gen. Boquet in the Manor Valley along Brush Run that the power of the Red Men was broken in Westmoreland County.

The General recalls the great streams of immigration out of Westmoreland into Ohio, when he was a boy, that carried so many of our people into the middle west.

He remembers the old mill below the old German cemetery, which belonged to Isaac Baer, who was married to Hannah Laffer, a daughter of Henry Lauffer. Her brother Samuel he well remembers: he opened a book store in Greensburg about 1835. He married a Cumberland Lady, sold out his business in Greensburg to a Boughman, and embarked in the same business on Wood Street, Pittsburg; his later record in the army, the General promised to look up for us.

There was a warm friendship between Henry Lauffer, Jr., and Simon Drumm. "they called each other cousin." "my father was always very fond of his Lauffer relatives." "Sam's father and my father were very intimate," the General asserts.

He thinks Col. Christopher Truby (elsewhere mentioned) was related to the Drumms and the Lauffers, for the daughter of Christopher Truby used to call his father "Cousin Simon."

As to the source of our people he knows we are from the Palatine, a country beautiful beyond anything: when General Tourans was sent into it, its devastation was so complete that in delivering his report to the French monarch he could truthfully say: "Sire I have not left a stick standing as big as that finger."

The people homeless, in destitution, came into the province of Pennsylvania, to find civil and religious liberty, and a chance to live.

BARTOL LAFFER BRANCH.

From wills of Northampton Co., the will of Philip Drumm, yeoman, of Moore Twp., probated Nov. 22, 1788, we learn that his daughter, Mary Angle, was the wife of Bartol Lawfer. Also that Simon, husband of Susanna Laffer, was the son of this Philip Drumm. Father Drumm lies buried near the stump of a big chestnut tree along the fence to the right of Old Stone Church, three miles north of Seigfrieds, Pa.

Heir ruhen die Gebiene der Philip Drumm. Er war geboren den 27, Sept. 1721, und entschlief den 14 Nov. 1788. Text war Luc 2 vers 29.

In the year 1889, about, Peter Piper, (an extensive traveler, formerly of Greensburg), after a long journey through the west, visited Hezekiah Waugaman. He told them that in California he had met a very intelligent fellow by the name of Laffer, who said that he was a descendant of Bartol Laffer, of Greensburg, and that Bartol had built the first brick house in that town.

As proprietor of the saw mill and grist mill, and hotel property, besides his real estate dealings, Bartol lived a very busy and useful life in Greensburg. His son Peter was a steam boat pilot, and was blown up in an explosion on the Ohio River shortly after the War of 1812.

Another son of Barthol was Judge in Canton Co., Ohio. Simon Lauffer, of Irwin, met Rev. P. A. Lauffer, of Meadville, and tells us he is a grandson of Bartol, and served for some years as President of Allegheny College. Dr. Cornelius C. Laffer, of Meadville, is of the Bartol Laffer family, and a son of P. A. Laffer.

Philip A. Laffer was born Sept. 30, 1837, (died Dec. 4, 1884), married July 24, 1862 to Ellen Weir Callender by Rev. Samuel N. Callender. Address Meadville, Pa. Five children. (1) Norma Callender Laffer born Nov. 16, 1863. Died Aug. 1, 1864. Interred at Meadville, Pa. (2) Philip Ernest Laffer born Aug. 29, 1865, married Oct. 1, 1891 to Blanche Davenport. Address, Parkersburg, W. Va. (3) Cornelius Callender Laffer, born Sept. 10, 1867, married Sept. 1, 1896, to Gertrude Sackett, by Rev. Austin M. Courtenay. Address, Meadville, Pa. Three children.

(a) Frederick Sackett Laffer, born Aug. 27, 1897.

(b) Cornelius C. Laffer, Jr., born Mar. 3rd, 1899.

(c) Ellen Elizabeth Laffer, born Aug. 5, 1902.

(4) Mary Evalyn Laffer, born Feb. 28, 1871. Address, Meadville, Pa.

(5) Ellen Elizabeth Laffer, born Oct. 26, 1875, married Dec. 28, 1899, to Herman B. Hogg. Address, Parkersburg, W. Va.

Bartol also had daughters, and a son Henry. The latter moved to Tuscarora, near Philadelphia. The source of our information is this: In the fall of 1824 John Lauffer, Jr., of Harrison City, the centenarian, and Frederick Steck, the father of Daniel Steck, a former sheriff of Westmoreland Co., went afoot to Philadelphia with a drove of 170 cattle that were purchased in the Manor Valley at from $10 to $12 per head.

It took five weeks to make the trip. John Lauffer, Jr., on this trip visited Henry, the son of Bartol, and saw his sons and daughters. His descendants no doubt are extant somewhere, and it is sincerely hoped that their family records have been kept carefully, and may some day be annexed to ours.

We do not know the year Bartol left Greensburg to go into Ohio, but the venerable John Lauffer tells us, he went with the great stream of migration of 1812.

From the records of Westmoreland County we glean the following entries:

1. Bartel Lafer from Christian Lafer, Vol. 1, p. 426: 20 May, 1785. Both of Mt. Pleasant Twp., Westmoreland Co., 200 A. "on the waters of the Sewickley" for £450.

2. Bartel Lafer from Peter Cook, Vol. D, p. 430: Jan., 1791. £170 for 1-3 of the tract in Hempfield Twp., Westmoreland Co., known as "Cookery, Patent Book No. 12, p. 501," 80½ acres.

The early land deals of John Laffer, Sr., and John Laffer, Jr., and John Lauffer, son of Henry, Sr., are appended:—

1. John Laffer from Bartel Laffer. Vol. 2, p. 159: 3, Apr., 1795.

Both resided in the town of Greensburg at the date of this entry. For £300 a tract containing 100 A. "and all allowance of six per cent. for woods and highways" is deeded over: Bartel Laffer transfers to the said John Laffer the woods, water courses, (dam, race, etc.), buildings, mills, and premises, and the said Bartel Laffer for him and his heirs doth warrant and defend the land and saw mill as aforesaid. This deed is of interest, showing that John sawed lumber for building the town, when Bartol became tavern keeper, Greensburg being a town "on the pike" where stages stopped en route for Pittsburg and the west.

Vol. D, p. 435, shows that this land was conveyed to Bartol Laffer 5 May, 1791, by Christopher Truby and Isabella, his wife; and that the land was "a tract of land called Seat of Justice," granted by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to Col. Christopher Truby, Esqr., 25 Aug., 1790.

2. John Laffer from Alex. Cohean. Vol. 7, p. 603: 18 Mar., 1806.

15. John Lauffer from David Anderson. Vol. 50, p. 429: 1 Apr., 1864.

For the interest of those concerned in titles to land we append the following list, before 1860; Henry, Sr., Henry, Jr., and Henry Paul, son of the centenarian, are included:

1. Henry Laffer from Jacob Christman. Vol. 9, p. 262: 15 April, 1811. Both of Mt. Pleasant Tp. Elizabeth, wife of Jacob Christman, was the daughter of Christian, the Pioneer—one of the five daughters mentioned in our introduction.

"Whereas the Honorable John Penn and Richard Penn, by their attorney John B. Coates by their indenture bearing date of 24 Feb., 1806.—did grant and confirm unto the said Jacob Christman his heirs and assigns a certain tract of land situated in Mt. Pleasant Tp., Co. of Westmoreland, containing 135¼ A. Vol. 7, p. 598.

Now this indenture WITNESSETH: That the said Jacob Christman and Elizabeth his wife for and in consideration of £37. 4. S. paid to them by Henry Laffer, for which the receipt whereof is hereby fully acknowledged, Do grant———31 A., of said tract———bounded by lands of Adam Hartzell & etc. To have and to hold———

2. Henry Laffer from David Silvies. Vol. 16, p. 41: 5 Jan., 1813.

3. Henry Laffer from Jacob Baum. Vol. 25, p. 26: 15 Nov., 1839.

6. Henry Lauffer from John Ygest, Vol. 6, p. 524: June, 1853.

7. Henry Lauffer from Joseph Baum. Vol. 40, p. 48: 288 Nov., 1844.

8. Henry Lauffer from John Williams. Vol. 40, p. 49: 27 June, 1843.

9. H. P. Lauffer from Steven Ridinger, Vol. 40, p. 531: 7 Mar., 1857. Vol. 40, p. 531: 7 Mar., 1857.

10. H. P. Lauffer from F. G. Oxley, Vol. 43, p. 411: 16 Aug., 1859.

For reference on the part of such as are interested in early real estate deals recorded in the Register of Deeds office in Greensburg, Westmoreland Co., Pa., we append the following:—

1. Christian Laffer from John Montgomery. Vol. D, p. 164: 17 Sept., 1789.

Christian, of Westmoreland Co., millwright, for £260 buys two tracts of land of John Montgomery, of Carlisle. 203 A. So P., in Salem Twp., and 280 acres on the Kiskiminetas River.

2. Christian Laffer from Bartol Laffer. Vol. 2, p. 506: 20 Jan., 1796. 55 acres in Hempfield Twp.

3. Christian Laffer from Adam Laffer. Vol. 8, p. 526: 20 Feb., 1798.

Adam, of Allegheny Co., Christian, of Franklin Tp., Westmoreland County, situated on south side of Crooked Creek, for £135. (This Adam is a son of Christian, the Pioneer). The land in question—389½ A. in Armstrong Tp., was purchased for £190 of Matthew McDonnell, of Derry Tp., Westmorland Co., at the time Adam resided in Greensburg. 22 Dec., 1796: Vol. 8, p. 525.

4. Christian Laffer from John Penn. Vol. 9, p. 434: 26 Nov., 1811.

John Penn, Sr., through his attorneys, John R. Coates and John B. Alexander, "acknowledges satisfaction on the margin of the record of a certain mortgage from Christian Laffer to the said John Penn and John Penn, Sr., the principal and interest money secured to them by the said mortgage having been paid to me, the said John R. Coates."

So many tempting tracts of choice land, led them to incur debt, in their deals; the early Laffers were land sharks, and their holdings will show that they recognized good land when they saw it. (About this time Christian, son of Christian, moved to Ohio, and Christian, son of John, Sr., son of Christian, the Pioneer, dealt in land).

5. Christian Laffer from David Gilleland. Vol. 24, p. 273: 10 Apr., 1837.

6. Christian Laffer from George Ambrose. Vol. 26, p. 30: 24 May, 1841.

7. Christian Laffer from Samuel F. Earnest. Vol. 42, p. 98: 13 July, 1858.

8. Christian Laffer from Jos. Knappenberger. Vol. 45, p. 270: 22 Mar., 1841.

9. Christian Laffer from H. M. Robertson. Vol. 45, p. 272: 16 Mar. 1860.

10. Christian Laffer from John Laffer. Vol. 65, p. 393: 31 Jan., 1828.

11. Christian Laffer from George Detes. Vol. 147, p. 433: 7 Apr., 1842.

12. Christian Laffer from John Kistler. Vol. 147, p. 435. 24 Apr., 1841.

THE CHRISTIAN LAFFER BRANCH.

Christian, Jr., and Bartel were older than Henry and John, and both were married when they came into Westmoreland Co. (Henry was 20 years old and John 5 years old when Christian, the Pioneer, moved into Westmoreland Co., from Moore Twp., Northampton Co.

In the little cemetery on the Old Esquire Conthain farm, now owned by Thad. W. Baum, near Pleasant Grove School House, Pickaway Co., Ohio, is the grave of Christian Laffer, died Oct. 2, 1823, in the 53rd year of his age, and buried on the farm on which he had lived. This date places his birth at 1770, which would make Christian, Jr., younger than his brother John. If that be true, John, the centenarian, is confused in his dates in this particular.

From the letter of Anna E. (Lauffer) Strayer, 1329 Forsythe Ave., Columbus, Ohio, we learn substantially as follows:—

Christian Laffer, son of Christian, the Pioneer, married a Miss Hooker while living in Pennsylvania. To them three sons and two daughters were born, of whom three lived to advanced age:

1. John Laffer, who married Susan Shook.
2. Susanna Laffer, married to Jacob Pelyer, four children.
3. Jacob Laffer, married to Sarah Burke. Four children.

By a second marriage he was united with Elizabeth Teegarden (died Feb. 21, 1826, aged 38 years, 11 months and 5 days). With the Teegardens he went to Madison Twp., Pickaway Co., O. To them were born seven children.

1. Christian Laffer. Married to Nancy Sloan. Nine children.

2. Henry Laffer. Married to Hannah Van Horn. Ten children.

3. Solomon Laffer. Married to Susanna Smith. Ten children.

4. Ellen Laffer. Married to Samuel Huff. Ten children.

5. Sarah Laffer. Married to John Crossley. Seven children.

6. Daniel Laffer. Married to Charity Woodring. Four children.

7. Simon Laffer. Married to Millie Hemper. Nine children.

Part of our information of the Christian Lauffer branch we derive from John Lauffer, the centenarian. In his earlier days he described his trip into Ohio thus: "On the 1st of November, 1826, in company with Col. Paul Brinker, I took a steamboat at Pittsburg for Cincinnati. We arrived at the latter place at the end of three days. A day or two later we started afoot for Dayton, Ohio, thence to Chillicothe, thence to Pickaway Co., to visit among the Teegardens, near St. Paul, Ohio, who had been pioneer settlers in Westmoreland Co. After visiting a week among old-time friends and relatives, the journey was resumed to Columbus, thence to Wooster, Cleveland and Canton, stopping with friends along the way. From Canton to Rumley, a village on the Tuscaroras River, thence to Steubenville by way of Harmony, and thence by way of Beaver Falls to Pittsburg. The whole journey occupying about six weeks."

The children of Christian's first marriage are:—

1. John (Christiana, wife of John Laffer, died June 10, 1846, aged 21 years, 8 months, 22 days.)

2. Susanna.

3. Jacob. Died Sept. 9, 1846, aged 51 years. Sarah, his wife, died Aug. 7, 1844, aged 53 years, 10 months.

These obituaries we have through Jacob R. Smith, Canal Westchester, Ohio. R. F. D. No. 2. We have no data of descendants.

The children of Christian's second marriage:

1. Christian Laffer. No data sent to us.

2. Henry Lauffer, the son of Christian, the son of Christian, the pioneer, was born June 12, 1812, married Oct. 24, 1846, to Hannah Van Horn, by Rev. Wagonhals. Died Aug. 29, 1897. Interred at Lithopolis, Ohio. Member of St. Paul's Evan. Lutheran Congregation at St. Paul, Pickaway Co., Ohio.

He had a family of ten, whose families are as follows:—

THE JOHN LAUFFER BRANCH.

John Lauffer, Sr., son of Christian, the Pioneer, was born March 8, 1769, in Northampton Co., Pa., and was a boy of five years when his father migrated into Westmoreland Co. In the year 1794 he moved on a tract of land north of Harrison City, a portion of which has since been known as the Hezekiah Waugaman farm. We have inserted a few more of the Lauffer land deals, as contained in the records of Westmoreland Co., Greensburg, Pa., as suggestive of the business enterprise of the early Lauffers in Westmoreland County.

His tombstone in the Denmark Manor Cemetery, Penn Tp., Westmoreland Co., bears this inscription: In memory of John Lauffer, Sr., died Feb. 18, 1851. Aged 81 years, 11 months, 10 days.

John Lauffer, Sr., was a very careful man in the matter of keeping an accurate family record. In his huge German Bible with its wooden lids covered with leather, he jotted down the dates of birth of his children as they were born. His estate was settled in 1856 after the death of his wife Barbara in 1855. Geo. Ashbaugh, son-in-law, and his son, Christian, were the executors. The whereabouts of that old Bible the descendants of neither Christian Lauffer nor George Ashbaugh can inform us. This old Bible may be no longer in existence. It simply shows the necessity of the publication of some such history as this to keep old records together, if we are to know in the later times, just Who-is-Who in the great Lauffer family.

John Lauffer, Sr., was the father of fourteen children.

Born of Susanna, nee Kemerer, first wife of John, Sr., who died Nov. 11, 1815, aged 41 years.

1. Elizabeth.
2. Susanna
3. Mary
4. Christian
5. Daniel

6. John, Jr.
7. Simeon
8. Seth
9. Hettie
10. Henry
11. Jacob
12. Sarah

Born of Barbara, nee Erret, second wife of John, Sr.

13. Hannah
14. Catherine

Elizabeth Lauffer, daughter of John, Sr., son of Christian, the Pioneer, was born in 1795 and died in Sept. 1843. She was married in June, 1823, to Henry Beamer, Sr., who died Dec. 17, 1856, in the sixty-second year of his age. Both are interred at the Beamer church, now called Olive, near Murraysville. They lived along Puckety Run in Franklin Tp. on the present Elwood farm. To them were born seven children.

1. John Beamer, son of Elizabeth Lauffer, daughter of John, Sr., son of Christian, the pioneer, was born Dec. 3, 1824. Married April 5, 1848, to Nancy Rubright (born Dec. 10, 1818), by Rev. Voigt. Both are in good health and live at West Newton, Pa. He is a carpenter and still works at his trade. To them were born five children. (1.) Catherine E. Beamer, born Dec. 31, 1848, married Oct. 28, 1873, to H. H. Silvis, 6745 Atwell St., E. E. Pittsburg, Pa. (2.) Mary Beamer, born Aug 6, 1850, married March 20, 1873, to John Silcox, 129 E. Lauffer, born Aug. 23, 1886. (j) Minnie B. Lauffer, born June 1, 1890. (k) George W. Lauffer, born Aug. 25, 1894.

VI. John Lauffer, Jr., son of John, Sr., son of Christian, the Pioneer, was born Jan. 26, 1803. He is the sixth in a family of fourteen and for equipoise and longevity has surpassed all the other Laufters. He was a man of geniality and of a cheerful, amiable disposition. He was a patriarch in our family, and being a grand-son of our common ancestor, Christian Lauffer, and having all his life taken a lively interest in the affairs of all branches of the Laufer family, he held a position of undisputed primacy.

The travels of his earlier years are related elsewhere in this history. He drove a team to Philadelphia several times before he was twenty-one, and could relate interesting stories of the stage coach days. In these trips East he crossed the mountains at three different places, namely, via Greensburg and Harrisburg, via Bedford and via Blairsville. In his own words: "I had been with a drover. He sold out at Norristown, then I went on to Philadelphia, to see the ships with sails. That is how I got down there. I had seen the steam boats at Pittsburg, but I wanted to see the sail ships that go on the ocean. I was twenty-two years old at that time."

In describing this journey he said: "We took the Greensburg Pike through Bedford. Another time we took the Northern Pike. We always walked home again. People are not so foolish nowadays, they do not walk so much. You get used to it. It is not harder than if you worked. It took a good bit of time going. Coming back we were allowed three days for one hundred miles. We got 60c a day for expenses and 30c a day from the drover as wages, besides having expenses paid. Going down we went about fifteen miles a day, just as it would suit to stop."

When asked how much money he made on such a trip, requiring six weeks, he said: "I was a pretty good walker and could cover more than 100 miles in three days. So I got some of the money allowed me for expenses. I cleared $9 or $10 on a trip." Quite a modest wage, according to our present standards of value!

On the Christmas before his death, when asked to again tell something of this trip into Ohio, he said: "Col. Paul Brinker and I took a notion to see Ohio. We had friends scattered all over the state. In the fall of the year when the buckwheat was thrashed and the corn in, we took a notion to see the country and visit our friends. We took the boat at Pittsburg for Cincinnati. We walked 400 miles or more. At Columbus we visited the Christ Lauffer people and the Teegardens who owned this land here, and had moved out from Greensburg. We were gone about six weeks. We went in October and got back in December before the snow came. We thought we had seen a good deal."

When asked again of the Peter Lauffer people, he said: "My Uncle Peter was about 15 years older than my father. He was a farmer by occupation, and a shoemaker by trade. He made shoes for Washington's army. He lived twelve miles from East Town (Easton) and five miles from the Blue Ridge. There is better land between East Town and Philadelphia than my Uncle Peter owned. He attended church at Stone Church, three miles from his home. I was there. John Naleigh, a brother of the Naleighs here in the Manor Valley that I knew, owned land that joined Uncle Peter's farm. I visited him and he was glad to see me. A line fence separated John Naleigh's farm from Uncle Peter's farm."

When asked how he felt that Christmas day he said: "I don't feel as good in my legs as I used to. My legs are so weak. My mind is good enough if I was only other ways as good." He died of senile gangrene of both extremities, and the arterial changes that were bringing it on, were evidently at work then already.

When asked about the role his father played in the Indian wars he said: "Several families were murdered by the Indians on Paver Run. Captain Bonner lived near Mt. Pleasant. He gathered up twenty or forty militia men and went in pursuit. The Indians escaped. The British hired the Indians. My father was drafted in the War of '12. He did not go. He sent a substitute. That was the summer mother was sick, and died of cancer, and it did not suit him to go. I was nine years old then. I can remember it well."

Of business enterprises, apart from farming, he conducted many in the years of his physical vigor. In 1834 he built a saw mill which was rebuilt in 1851. The log yard was located where the public school building at Harrison City now stands. In 1840 he and his brother Seth built a steam grist mill about one-half mile northeast of Harrison City. A race was constructed too and part of the time this mill was operated by water power. The saw mill was run by water power. The log yard was where the Harrison City school house now stands. Both mills are now torn down.

In his youth the site of Harrison City was a dense thicket. He and John C. Rankin named and laid out that town. It was named in honor of William Henry Harrison, "Old Tippecanoe," and the plan of the town bears date of Nov. 3, 1840. The land south of Main street belonged to John C. Rankin, at an earlier date to Jacob Walthour, and north of Main street to John Laufer.

John Laufer, Jr., enjoys the distinction of having voted in twenty presidential elections. In the recent presidential election, he walked to the polls unaided, and even without a cane. He entered the booth alone, and marked his own ballott without the aid of glasses, owing to the excellence of his second sight. He voted for all the presidents from John Quincy Adams up to McKinley. Harrison, Jackson and Lincoln were his favorites, he helped elect all three. In the recent election (1903) he voted the Prohibition ticket. He resented the administration's Philippine policy. In the Prohibition propaganda of 1857 he became a total abstainer himself, and ceased using whiskey in the harvest field, as was customary in those days. He was five feet, six inches in height and weighed 145 pounds. In the vigor of his early manhood he weighed considerably more. He had dark hair and blue eyes.

His mental vigor was retained to an unusual degree, and the tenacity of his memory was remarkable. He seemed to have forgotten nothing. And even at Christmas, 1903, was much interested in contemporary events. He attributed the fullness of his years and his continued good health to his temperate habits. For more than thirty years, he followed no active pursuit in life, and chose a golden medium in his living. He was a venerable man and many traveled far to converse with him. He reached the century milestone with his mind clear and faculties unimpaired. It was agreeable to talk to so cheerful an old man, who could recall the War of 1812 and talked of Jackson and his victories, as events occurring when he was a boy. The Indian raids upon the early settlers were fresh in his mind, he could remember the Wilderness north of Pittsburg (Armstrong Co.) where deer abounded in his youth, and he could relate the events of the Mexican and Civil wars with great exactness. Until shortly before his death he devoted several hours each day to reading papers, books and the Bible.

He was a devout man, and was a life-long member of the Reformed church which he attended regularly and in which he took great interest. Profanity, liquor, and other vices of the vulgar, he was free from. He ate heartily, slept well, and even when quite old and feeble was not burdensome to himself or others. In his later years he made his home with his daughter Lucy, Mrs. Klingensmith, who is an excellent housekeeper, and fondly cared for him in sickness and in health.

His first marriage was to Esther Brinker May 3, 1827. She was a daughter of Jacob Brinker and was born Nov. 24, 1808, and died July 21, 1849. She was the mother of twelve children.

John Lauffer, Jr., was married a second time to Mrs. Mary Bear, nee Buchanan, Feb. 12, 1853. It was since the death of the latter that he made his home with his daughter Lucy.

John Lauffer, Jr., died Jan. 14, 1904, aged 100 years, 11 months and 19 days. Interred at Denmark Manor Cemetery. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. J. F. Snyder, of Salina, in the Reformed Church at Harrison City. His theme was the Heavenly Home and his text from John's Gospel 14:2-3. It was the largest funeral ever seen in that part of the country, and one of the most able sermons ever listened to by the people of Harrison City: "In the Heavenly Home there is room enough for all who will come. Like in the parable of the Great Supper, after the servants gather in all they could find, it was reported there still is room. There are many mansions. It is an assured Home. No child of God will ever be disappointed. 'If it were not so I would have told you.' St. Paul declares, 'For we know if the earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens.'"

Rev. Snyder was assisted by Rev. Deimer and Rev. Noss. The church was so packed that many were unable to gain admission.

The children of John Jr., son of John Sr., the son of Christian, the pioneer, are: (1) Henry Paul Lauffer, born Feb. 11, 1828, married July 4, 1849, to Susanna Fink; of this union there sprang Rev. (6) Josiah Benjamin Lauffer, son of John, Jr., son of John, Sr., son of Christian, the Pioneer, born Jan. 27, 1837. Address 868 Chester St., Oakland, Cal. His has been a very interesting career. At twenty years of age he commenced making trips on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. He made ten or eleven trips to Vicksburg and New Orleans between 1858 and 1860. It was then his purpose to learn the river in order to be a pilot. He tells us: "In 1861 the war broke out and the Rebel blockaded the lower Mississippi, and that stopped my boating scheme. In 1861 I enlisted for the War as a private soldier. I served nearly through the war. Was promoted and was discharged in July, 1865, as Captain of Company K, 11th regiment, Pa. Volunteers. During my service I took part in many of the principal battles of the war, was twice slightly and once severely wounded.

"I will here mention my brother Israel, who also was a soldier. He belonged to the 101st Regiment. He was wounded and taken prisoner and died a prisoner of war. One thing more of importance I wish to call to your attention. I never saw it mentioned anywhere that my grandfather, John Lauffer, served in the Revolutionary War, but it is a fact that two of his brothers and himself served during that period. My grandfather being very young at the time served as a scout. This I heard from his own lips. In those times records may have been kept very imperfectly. There may be no record to show that he served under Captain Bonnet, and in the War of 1812, he furnished a soldier, that is he hired and paid a man out of his own pocket to serve in the war, he at the time being unable to serve himself.

"After the War I engaged in store business in Penn Station for about four years, during which time I was postmaster. From there I moved on a farm in Penn Township, lived there four years and from there to Harrison City. I again engaged in the mercantile business and was postmaster for six years. In 1886 I moved to Humboldt County, Cal., lived there for four years, then moved to San Francisco. I have been employed at the U. S. mint for nearly nine years. I was also employed at the Navy Yard at Vallgio nearly two years."

Josiah B. Lauffer was married Nov. 26, 1866, to Anna J. Sowash, by Rev. James Kelso. To them were born nine children: (a) James Otis Lauffer, born Sept. 23, 1871, married to Margaret Newhart, San Francisco, Cal. (b) Charles Lynus Lauffer, born Feb. 21, 1874, married to Charlotte Pierce. Two sons. Howard Clayton Lauffer and Raymond Bartle Lauffer. Oakland, Cal. (c) Joseph Garnet Lauffer, Oakland, Cal., born Aug. 30, 1878.

(d) Grace Esther Lauffer, born Feb. 4, 1868, Oakland, Cal. (e) Catherine Patterson Lauffer, born Nov. 26, 1869, married to Bernard Aner, of Golden Gate, Cal. HENRY LAUFFER BRANCH.

The family of Henry Lauffer, Sr., son of Christian Lauffer, the Pioneer.

Henry Lauffer, Sr., was a farmer and lived all his life on the old Lauffer place, near Pleasant Unity, the farm on which Simon Trice now lives. Henry Lauffer, Sr., was laid to rest in the old Bash cemetery in February, 1821, aged 67 years, 5 months and 19 days. By his side rests Barbara, his wife, whose maiden name was Alliman. She died May 14th, 1846, aged 75 years and 26 days. This old cemetery is on the Somer's farm of the present day, near the Thomas school house, in Unity township, Westmoreland county. It is a two acre lot, willed in perpetuity for cemetery purposes. This is the same cemetery in which his father Christian Lauffer, our common ancestor, lies buried.

In Pennsylvania Archives, Volume 23, Page 226, Third Series, we find that Henry Lauffer is enrolled among "Rangers of the Frontiers 1778 to 1783" for Westmoreland county.

Until the death of Henry, Sr., his son Henry lived with him on the old homestead. He kept a wayside tavern for some twenty years before his death in 1821. He was a farmer but the stage coaches passed his house, and the passengers wanted "pieces" and meals, and there were many weary travelers to be kept over night. All the grocery stores sold whiskey in those days, it was as necessary as molasses and coffee in that age, and of course, it could be found at that hospitable farm house.

Henry, Sr., died prematurely from an injury to his foot that became infected. He was still a young man at 67. Barbara, his wife, lived 25 years after his death, which years she spent in the home of Henry Jr., and later with her daughter Polly, the wife of Jacob Gress, Sr., who lived along Pine Run, near North Washington, Westmoreland county. Jacob Gress, Sr., purchased a farm just south of Pleasant Unity and removed there in 1837, from which place Barbara was laid to rest by the side of her husband, as before stated.

HENRY LAUFFER'S WIFE.

HENRY LAUFFER, JR.

It was very amusing to the writer, listening to Jacob Gress and Henry Gress, of Pleasant Unity, as they related reminiscences of their grandmother.

"Grandmother was real strict. She often whipped us. When mother wished us to do anything, we were in no hurry, but when grandmother asked us, we obeyed promptly. When she said anything, she meant it."

The family of Henry Lauffer, Sr., consisted of:

- 1 Henry Jr.
- 2 John.
- 3 Susanna.
- 4 Mary (Polly)
- 5 Elizabeth.

1. Henry Jr., son of Henry Sr., son of Christian, the Pioneer, was born December 27th, 1793, and his wife Anna Marie Gress was born September 3rd, 1795. They were married in September, 1814. His wife died April 24, 1870, aged 75 years, 2 months, 21 days. He died April 18, 1873, aged 79 years, 3 months, 22 days. His family bible is in the hands of his son, Isaac Lauffer, of Greensburg, and the records are in perfect form.

He resided with his father, Henry Sr., on the old homestead until the death of the latter in 1821, after which he lived on a farm just west of Greensburg. He later moved into the Manor Valley. He conducted a large business and acquired considerable property. For many years he operated a Fulling Mill in the Manor Valley, on the present James McKeever farm in Penn township. Home-made cloth, flannels and blankets were brought for many miles to his mill to be fulled. Fulling shrunk the cloth and made it thicker, closer and softer. He built the first brick house in the Manor Valley.

He began wagoning, driving a big conestoga wagon, with four or six horses, between Pittsburg and Baltimore, when only sixteen years old.

His family consisted of twelve:

1. Hannah Lauffer, daughter of Henry Jr., son of Henry Sr.,

Elizabeth Lauffer, daughter of Henry Sr., the son of Christian, the Pioneer, was born in 1795 and died in 1869. She was married in 1814 to Adam Rumbaugh. Her grandson says: "My mother died in 1869 and my father died in 1870, six months after mother's death. They are interred in the Cemetery on the Rumbaugh farm." When they moved to Ohio, in March, 1817, to their farm, in Wayne Co., ten miles north-west of Wooster, the county seat, they took with them one son, Issac Rumbaugh.

We consider the letter of Jacob Rumbaugh of sufficient interest to reproduce it.

14 Cottage St., Ashland, O.

September 21st, 1903.

To my Lauffer friends:

In 1816 my grandfather Lauffer entered five quarter sections of land in Wayne Co., O. One section for each of his children, two boys, Henry and John Lauffer, three girls, Mrs. Susan Hartzell, Mrs. Polly Gress and my mother, Elizabeth. My parents the following March, 1817, moved from Westmoreland Co., Pa., to Ohio, then called the Far West, to the quarter section of land my mother received of my grand father, Henry Lauffer.

I have three deeds to this quarter section of land. The first is printed on buck skin, conveying the land from Jas. Madison, President of the United States, to Henry Lauffer, of Westmoreland Co., the twentieth day of December 1816. The second deed was written on buck skin by John Wells, Notary Public, of Greensburg, Pa., in 1817, conveying the quarter section of land from my grandfather Henry Lauffer, to my father Adam Rumbaugh. The third and last deed conveyed the land in 1864 from my parents to myself.

I was born and raised on the farm, lived forty-two years on the farm. When my parents settled on this farm, Wayne county was a perfect wilderness. I many times heard my mother relate that they cut part of the way from Wooster to ten miles north-west of Wooster to the farm. In the ten miles there were but two families living on the road between them and Wooster. They did not know of any white settlers to the north-west of them.

This is a beautiful farm of 172 acres. We will keep it in our family as long as it is in our power to do so.

Respectfully,

Jacob Rumbaugh.

Elizabeth Lauffer had eleven children.

(1) Isaac Rumbaugh, son of Elizabeth Lauffer, daughter of Henry Sr., son of Christian, the Pioneer, was born in 1815 at Pleasant Unity, Westmoreland Co., Pa., married in 1836 to Mary Rumbaugh. Married again in 1855 to Catharine Piffer. Wedding Bells.

Dr. C. A. Easterly and Miss Elsa Studeman were united in marriage last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Walters, Mrs. Walters being the bride's sister. Rev. Alexander Bennett, of the M. E. church, spoke the words which united this young couple for life. The wedding was a quiet one, only a few relatives and near friends were present at the ceremony.

Doctor Easterly came here from Carroll about two years ago and bought the dental business of Dr. C. M. Boos and through his courteous treatment and fair dealing he has built up a very good business. He is a young man of good moral character and a hustler.

Miss Studeman is a refined young lady, well educated and has been one of our most popular teachers in Manning and vicinity for a number of years and is now completing a term of school at the Center school just east of town. They have taken up housekeeping at the fine new cottage of E. Hathaway up near the school house. The Monitor joins their many friends in extending congratulations.

When killed he was 21 years of age. Following is a letter written home by him a short time before he was killed:

Camp of the 211th Reg't., P. V.,

Near Hancock Station, Va.

March the 26th, A. D. 1865.

Dear Parents:

Brothers and sisters, I this Sabbath morning once more take the pleasure of writing you a few lines to inform you that I am still spared and have good health. I will now inform you of a battle which was fought yesterday, from half past eight o'clock until half past ten o'clock, in the forenoon. The rebels came on our pickets early in the morning and told them that they were coming into our lines. They soon had the pickets taken without firing a shot. They then rushed on two of our forts and took them and some prisoners. We left our camp at daylight and had about five miles to march. We run about one-half of the way, as the rebels were fast making their way for the railroad. Our regiment was drawn in line and the 205th on our left and the 207th on our right. This made our brigade. When we were ordered on we went about half way to the forts which had been taken and then fixed our bayonets, and all gave a yell, and the "Jonnies" broke from the forts like sheep, and the stars and stripes were once more placed on the fort. The name of this fort is Fort Steadman. This is the fort that our regiment took. The name of the other I don't know. These forts and the rebel fort are only about 200 yards apart. Our batteries poured the grape into the forts while the rebels were in them, which soon made them scatter. The shells were flying fast and the minnie balls whizzed past our heads, but the loss in our regiment was very small. I got through without a scratch, and Andrew Wineman and Josiah Maxwell the same. The rebel loss in killed, wounded and prisoners is about 3,000—most prisoners. As soon as we got to the fort about 1,000 prisoners came in with their flag. They told us to go on that we were all right. They said they had been marched about 12 miles the night before. I got a piece of their corn bread. It is corn meal mixed with water and only dried. It was a hard sight to see when we got in the fort. Some had their legs torn off by shells, some shot in the breast, others through the head and almost every place a person can think of. I only saw 5 or 6 of our men inside the fort that were killed. They didn't get any of our guns. We stayed in the fort until about half past four o'clock, when we went back to camp. This morning I feel all right except my legs are a little tired. I will close, hoping to hear from you soon. I will put a button in this letter, which I got off a dead rebel at the fort.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

A. J. Shaft is Struck by the Binders of a Railroad Bridge and Killed — The Funeral.

A very sad accident happened to a resident of this place on Saturday, in which A. J. Shaft, a brakeman on the local freight of which Theo. Butterfield, of this place, is connected, is the victim. Mr. Shaft was standing on one of the cars with his face turned toward the rear of the cars and had evidently forgotten of the near approach to his death trap, the Paintersville bridge. He was struck on the back of the head by one of the binders of the bridge and knocked forward on his face on top of the car. He survived for a few minutes, but died before reaching the next station. His head was cut very little, but his neck was broken. His remains were brought to his home in Rohrertown on Saturday afternoon and interred in the German cemetery on Sunday at 3 p. m. He was a member of the St. Clair Lodge, No. 53, A. O. U. W., and of the Knights of Pythias.—Greensburg Press, June 16, 1884.

Lived opposite Apollo until 1889 when she and her husband moved to near Harrison City, Pa., and after her husband's death moved to Greensburg, Pa., where she spent the last years of her life.

She was a consistent member of the Denmark-Manor Reformed Church and a loving mother.

In Loving Remembrance.

We miss thee from our home, dear mother,
 We miss thee from thy place,
 A shadow o'er our life is cast,
 We miss the sunshine of thy face,
 We miss thy kind and willing hand,
 Thy fond and earnest care,
 Our home is dark without thee—
 We miss thee everywhere.

BRIEF SKETCH OF WILLIAM LAUFFER.

William Lauffer was born in Mount Pleasant Township, Westmoreland County, Pa., Nov. 6th, 1824. A few years later his father and mother moved to Manordale, Franklin Township, Westmoreland County, Pa., where he spent the early years of his life in the pursuit of farming and working on a saw-mill.

Early in life he was baptized by Dr. N. P. Hacke, and when he had arrived at the age of thirteen years, he became a full Communicant member of Emanuel German Reformed Church.

In the Spring of 1852 he purchased a farm of George McCreary, opposite the town of Warren, now Apollo, in Allegheny Township, Westmoreland County, Pa., and moved to it in the Spring of 1853, where he continued the pursuit of farming, and in the Spring of 1889 he moved to the David Yount farm near the scene of his early boyhood days in Penn Township, near Harrison City, Pa., where he passed the remainder of his days.

He was married to Elizabeth Spence, of Apollo, Pa., June 20th, 1861, by Rev. Robert McMillan.

He was an industrious, prosperous, honest, upright, christian father, a good citizen and a consistant member of the German Reformed Church and in his declining years attended the Denmark-Manor Reformed Church, where he lies buried alongside the church in Woodlawn Cemetery.

In Politics he was a stalwart Republican; but in local elections the best man always received his vote.

He was modest in his manner, temperate in his habits, and had a host of friends. He had established an undying reputation for honesty and was held out as a worthy example.

His neighbors, who knew him best, were accustomed to say to each other, "You should be as honest as Billy Lauffer," as he was familiarly called.

In loving remembrance of William Lauffer, who died Dec. 29th, 1898, aged 74 years, 1 month and 23 days.

"One less at home—the charmed circle broken;
A dear face missed day by day from its usual place.
But cleansed, saved, perfected by grace.
One more in Heaven; one less on earth:
Its pain, its sorrow, and its toil to share.
One less the pilgrim's daily cross to bear;
One more the Crown of the blessed to wear,
At home in Heaven."

DR. SWALLOW'S DEATH.

The death of Dr. Frank Lewis Swallow has cast a gloom over Manor, as it takes away a kind father, a faithful and devoted husband and a most generous and affable citizen. Let those who knew him best testify to his sterling worth and his memory will be kept green for many years.

Dr. Swallow was born in Lambertville, N. J., on the 30th day of June, 1876. His father, Anderson Swallow, is a prominent architect and builder of that place. His mother died ten years ago. His brothers, Harry, of Lambertville, and Charles, of Trenton, are prominent citizens. The deceased was the youngest of the family.

The deceased entered the public schools of his native town and made the remarkable record of graduating from the High School at the age of 13 years. It is said of him that he was the only pupil that ever graduated there in knee pants. He entered the University of Pennsylvania and graduated from that celebrated institution in 1900, at the remarkable age of 24 years. He was appointed by the P. R. R. for the Pitcairn division, as examining surgeon and held this position at the time of his death.

He was a skilled musician. He played in Sousa's band, belonged to some of Philadelphia's finest orchestras and won distinction in this line. He was married to Miss Lillie Spencer Lauffer, of Greensburg, Pa., in 1902, and this marriage was blessed by the birth of a bright boy baby, now only seven weeks old. To his wife and baby boy he was most devotedly attached. The death chamber is a singularly sad one and when the writer, an old acquaintance of the family, visited it this morning, he found the bride of a year ago prostrate in grief and the gray haired-grandmother fondling her little grandson, whose young and gifted father was confined for the tomb.

The cause of death was evidently overstudy. A worshipper at the shrine, he gave his Deity too much devotion and his death was due to physical collapse. His death is another instance, where genius and energy are wedded in the body and mind of a single individual. He was a most genial and companionable man, a devoted husband and father, and the sympathy of all goes out unstintingly to the bereaved in this hour of dire affliction.—Greensburg Tribune.

Pioneer, was a successful farmer, a prominent member of the Reformed church in which he held the offices of elder and deacon for many years. He was a man of commendable characteristics, being known among his neighbors as Honest Peter. In politics he was a staunch Republican, but never aspired to public office.

Early in life he purchased a farm in Penn township, Westmoreland County, Pa. The farm contained about 138 acres, and was in rather poor state of cultivation. He was frequently told by his neighbors and friends, that he could not make a living on such poor land. Peter, however, had the courage and went to work with a will and soon brought into evidence his ability as a business man and a farmer.

In the year 1873 he erected a large brick house on the farm and surrounded it with an evergreen fence, which, together with many other improvements, is still standing as a witness to his untiring efforts, though now being owned by Wm. Wagner.

For none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself. For whether we live, we live unto the Lord; and whether we die, we die unto the Lord; whether we live or die therefore we are the Lord's. For to this end Christ both died and rose and revived—lived again—that he might be Lord both of the dead and living. Romans 14:7, 8, 9.

CHRISTIANS THE LORD'S POSSESSION.

Extracts from a sermon preached at the funeral of Peter Laufer, who died August 4, 1886, interment in Emanuel Cemetery, August 6, 1886.

The tenderest and warmest recollection of our lives cluster around our childhood's home. We may have gone out from it, but we never, never can forget the old home, where we spent our childhood days. So the spirit too has a childhood's home, where it was born unto God, became God's property, and reared on the breast of its spiritual mother—the church. A power undefinable that binds the faithful Christian—bound our departed brother to the place, where he became God's property, and where he learned to know and love Christ. For some years he transferred his church membership to a neighboring congregation, but to this Zion of God—this childhood home of his soul and spirit, around which memories clustered, which will live forever, his eyes and his heart ever turned. The poet expresses the sentiments and feelings of our beloved brother for this house of God and all its surroundings in that beautiful hymn.

I love thy kingdom Lord,
The house of thine abode.
The church our blest Redeemer saved
With his own precious blood.

If e'er my heart forget,
Her welfare or her woe,
Let every joy this heart forsake
And every grief o'erflow.

For her my tears shall fall,
For her my prayers ascend,
To her my cares and toils be given,
Till toils and cares shall end.

With these sentiments animating and ruling his heart, he labored early and late, nobly and heroically to make this spiritual home, this church—God's acre, where peacefully his remains will sleep until the resurrection, now beautiful and lovely. The beauty, attractiveness and loveliness of this sacred spot is due to our departed brother, and others, who like him, labored, toiled, prayed, and gave largely of their means, time and substance, to adore and beautify this hill of God, and make this temple—the place where God's name is recorded and where his honor dwelleth glorious. No one gave more towards the rebuilding of this temple. No one gave more willingly or cheerfully. And none were more faithful in their attendance on the regular preaching of the word, the ordinances of the church, and the congregational meetings, having for their object the advancement of God's Kingdom in our midst.

The last resting place of the generous hearted Peter Laufer, his wife Anna, their two infant daughters, and one son Latanna. William, of his second wife Sarah. A most beautiful spot in Hill cemetery.

THE HOME OF PETER LAUFER built in 1873 near Harrison City, Pa. A home that brings many fond recollections to the memory of the family and friends.

Our departed brother began life with scarcely a dollar. Industrious, full of zeal and energy, God blessed and prospered him. He accumulated a comfortable home and a goodly inheritance of honest toil, hard labor, and the sweat of his brow. Whilst he was diligent in business he was at the same time fervent in spirit serving the Lord. He always gave liberally and cheerfully unto the benevolent objects of the church. God loves the cheerful giver. In this regard, as well as a faithful member and deacon of this congregation, we will all miss him. As a good man and neighbor the community will miss him, but above all as a tender husband and a kind and loving father will be missed by the bereaved household and family. Better, however, ten thousand times better that we are missed, even sadly missed in the church, congregation community and family circle than otherwise. In this there is the evidence and the proof that we are filling, in some measure at least the sphere and place into which God put us. Speaking to me some time ago of the disease which was terminating his earthly life, he remarked that he was dying differently from what he thought he would. He said, he expected to die suddenly. His departure was in accordance with the teaching and truth of the text. We die according to the way, manner and circumstances, as God directs and wills. "We die unto the Lord."

But how did our departed friend and brother die? As he lived, "Unto the Lord." In the providence of God, I was permitted to be at his side, commend his soul into the hands of our kind heavenly Father, and close his eyes in death. He was perfectly conscious to the last moment, and departed as calmly and peacefully, as the child falling asleep on its mothers bosom. So gently did he fall asleep in Jesus, that it could scarcely be seen just when the earthly life terminated and the heavenly was ushered in.

"How blest the righteous when he dies

When sinks a weary soul to rest

How mildly beam the closing eyes,

How gently heaves the expiring breast."

“Jesus can make a dying bed
Feel soft as downy pillows are,
Whilst on his breast I lean my head
And breathe my life out sweetly there.”

How comforting also are the words of the text to the bereaved household, family, relatives and friends. You are God's property, God's possession. He has bought you each one with a price not with corruptible things, as silver and gold, but with the precious blood of Christ, as a lamb, without blemish and without spot. We belong unto him in soul and body, in life and death.

He is your shepherd. He will provide for and take care of you, and you shall not want. The same God and Father, that led, preserved, defended and provided for his Israel of old will care for you. The same Savior that comforted a Mary and a Martha will comfort you. He says, “Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid etc.” “I will not leave you comfortless.” Trust Christ. Bring your sorrows, tears and broken hearts to him. “Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest.”

There are solemn lessons for us to be learned as a congregation and a community. Do we realize that we are Gods property, that he has bought us with the infinitely availing blood of his own dear son? In virtue of this precious purchase price we belong not unto the world nor the evil one, but unto Christ. If we realize that we are God's property we will have the mind and spirit of Him, who has fully satisfied for all our sins, and made us heirs of God and joint heirs with Himself. We will live unto God in a peculiar Christian sense. We will glorify God with our bodies and spirits which are his. If we are not Christ's, and not living unto the Lord, whose fault is it? Can we come before God now, and in the greatlast day and tell him that He never bought us? Is there a soul here to-day, who is making null and void this efficacious purchase by neglecting and refusing to live unto him?

"Lord, it belongs not to my care
 Whether I die or live:
 To love and serve Thee is my share,
 And this Thy grace must give."

"If life be long, I will be glad
 That I may long obey,
 If short, yet why should I be sad
 To soar to endless day?"

Charles Humes Lauffer, born August 7, 1892;

William Andrew Lauffer, born June 14, 1895;

Joseph Eugene Lauffer, born April 24, 1903.

Family of Henry Z. Lauffer, son of Peter, son of John, son of Henry, Sr., son of Christian Lauffer, the Pioneer, was born in Penn Township, Westmoreland County, Pa., January 1, 1868; married April 23, 1891, by Rev. James S. Freeman, to Mary E. Hill, who was born March 14, 1868. Like boys raised on the farm he grew to manhood without being exposed to the vices that belong to idleness. He helped his father in the summer and attended the district school in the winter.

He never knew the value of a mother's love, his mother dying when he was but six years old. His father died when he was eighteen, leaving Henry to shift for himself. He proved himself equal to the emergency and for two years worked for his brother, receiving $10.00 per month in the summer and his board in the winter.

The third summer he secured work with a cousin, Simon Trice, and at the expiration of his time attended the Greensburg Seminary. He entered Duff's Commercial College, where, in order to pay his way he worked in an office for $5.00 a week. He diligently pursued his studies in the evenings, graduating with honor.

After completing his course he accompanied one of his teachers, Prof. Thompson, whose health had failed, to Wilmerding, and clerked in his grocery.

He remained with Mr. Thompson until the latter disposed of his business when he worked for Snyder Bros. during the illness of a clerk. Having nothing in view he accepted an offer to carry papers for William Adams, a news dealer, receiving very meager pay.

But soon John R. Montgomery, a Turtle Creek merchant, found a place for Mr. Lauffer in his office and store, where he remained sometime.

On April 23, 1891, Mr. Lauffer was united in marriage with Miss Mary E. Hill, a dress maker of Wilkinsburg. Having been working on very small salaries since leaving college, he conceived the idea of becoming a dress maker. With him to think, was to do, and soon he became quite proficient in the art.

Later he secured a position with Johnston Bros., of Wilkinsburg, remaining two years. He also spent two years as head book-keeper for a wholesale confectionery company, of Pittsburg.

Returning to his native township in August, 1895, he accepted a position as book-keeper at the Union Planing Mill Co., of Jeannette, where he remained for more than five years, resigning July 31, 1901, to accept a position as chief clerk to the Hon. John H. Brown, who was appointed Controller of Westmoreland County, by the Governor. This position he held for a term of three years, filling it very acceptably.

Soon after leaving the County Controllers Office, he was elected assistant Cashier of the Jeannette National Bank, which position he now holds.

Mr. Lauffer is an expert accountant, a careful business man and has hosts of friends. He resides with his wife and children in a pleasant country home, near Jeannette.

The Lauffer Reunion was held at the home of H. Z. Lauffer, July 4, 1903. We reproduce the following clipping from the Greensburg Press, in reference to same:

REUNION SUCCESSFUL DESPITE HEAVY RAIN.

Although the ugly weather of Saturday kept many from attending the Lauffer reunion at the home of Deputy Controller, H. Z. Lauffer, Penn township, 275 people were present and a very enjoyable time was had.

Owing to the absence of Rev. Frank E. Lauffer, of Aaronsburg, the program could not be carried out as published. Short addresses were delivered by Rev. J. M. Evans, of Harrison City, Rev. C. E. Wagner, of Delmont, Rev. J. N. Bauman, of Jeannette, and Rev. J. F. Snyder, of Salina. Good music was rendered by the Knobloch orchestra, Greensburg. At noon an elegant dinner was served on tables in the barn.

General regret was expressed that the venerable John Lauffer, of Harrison City, was unable to be present as the guest of honor. It will be recalled that on January 26, Mr. Lauffer celebrated his one-hundredth birthday anniversary.

To them were born the following children:

Sadie Catharine Howe Lauffer, born February 20, 1892;

James Freeman Lauffer, born November 10, 1895;

The Lauffer Reunion of 1905 was held at the home of C. P. Ashbaugh. We attach clipping from Greensburg Press, regarding same:

HELD ANNUAL REUNION.

Lauffer Family Spend Delightful Day Near Harrison City.

The annual Lauffer reunion was held at the home of C. P. Ashbaugh, two miles northwest of Harrison City, and was one of the most successful yet held, nearly 200 people being present. All brought well filled baskets, the contents of which were spread on eight tables, arranged in the large barn floor. After the blessing was offered by the Rev. Frank Lauffer, of Aaronsburg, full justice was done to the feast.

After dinner Rev. Frank E. Lauffer made an address in which he gave a very complete history of the Lauffer family and descendants. The history will soon be published in book form. During the past year death claimed a number of the Lauffer family and relatives. These were greatly missed at the reunion, as they always took an active part in the exercises. Yesterday a near relative in the person of Mrs. Henry Stokum, was laid to rest, and a few days before Mrs. Dudie Duff was buried. The Near, Manor Dale, Pa., December 24, Mrs. Lydia Kemerer, aged 62 years, 4 months and 27 days. The deceased had been afflicted for a number of years with asthmatic and dropsical troubles. La Grippe set in and in one short week terminated her earthly life. In infancy she was baptized by Rev. Winch and confirmed by him in the sixteenth year of her age. She was a communicant member of the Emmanuel congregation for 45 years. Like her daughter, Mrs. Steele, who died a few years ago, she left a legacy, the interest of which is to be used in keeping the God's acre in which her body reposes beautiful and in order. By that legacy, though dead, she yet speaketh. "Arise ye and depart, for this is not your rest."

DIED.

To them were born the following children:

Sarah H. Berlin Kemerer, born October 16, 1858; married December 18, 1900, to Edward J. Klingensmith; residence, Braddock, Pa., 513 Hawkins avenue;

For the Reformed Church Record.

DIED.

Departed this life, June 10, 1890, Mrs. Emma J., wife of Elmer Steele, and daughter of Jacob W. and Lydia A. Kemerer, aged 26 years, 7 months and 9 days.

Sister Emma was a most faithful and devoted member of the Emanuel Reformed congregation, Manor Dale, Westmoreland Co., Pa. In infancy she was given to God in baptism, Dr. Hacke performing the sacred and solemn ordinance. In her fifteenth year, after a full and thorough course of catechetical instruction she, with seventeen other young persons, was admitted into full communion with the Christian Church by the solemn and impressive rite of confirmation, by her pastor, the Rev. J. F. Snyder. During all these years she was a faithful and devoted worshipper, never absent from the services of the sanctuary and the holy communion, except when providentially prevented. She was one of God's meek, quiet, kind, gentle, unassuming, uncomplaining saints. Although physically delicate(she surpassed many a robust, healthy Christian in her faithful attendance upon the services of the sanctuary and the means of grace. She was the light and joy of the home in sickness as well as in health. With a calm and cheerful countenance, as an angel of mercy, she would go from bed to bed and tenderly minister to suffering loved ones. When La Grippe prostrated the members of the family, and brought her mother to the point of death, for long weary days and nights, as an affectionate and devoted wife, a dutiful and loving daughter, a kind and gentle sister, she tenderly cared for them. When health again began to visit the family, in the providence of God she was called to walk through the deep waters of affliction. The dear babe that God had given her was after a few hours' illness removed from earth. Her heart bled under this new and sore bereavement, but by the grace of God she gave it up without one murmuring word. Stricken down by fever, her illness was of short duration. The messenger came suddenly, but did not find her unprepared. Months before she departed, while in her usual health, she had set apart a sum of money for keeping in repair the beautiful God's acre in which her body now sleeps. By her earnest Christian life, her faithfulness and devotion, her legacy to the church, what a memorial she reared, more enduring than granite or marble!

"Soldier of God, well done!
Rest from thy loved employ;
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy."

SHE NOW SLEEPS.

The relatives and friends of the late Anna Mary Kemerer gathered on Thursday afternoon at the home of Jacob Kemerer, of Franklin township, to pay their last respects to his departed daughter, whose death was previously mentioned in these columns. After brief service at the house the mourners repaired to Hill's church. Notwithstanding the bad roads and inclement weather the cortege was nearly a mile long.

Her former pastor, J. F. Snyder, of Hill's church, conducted the service. He took his text from Jer. 15th chapter and part of the 9th verse: "Her sun is gone down while it is yet day." He spoke in part as follows:

The death of a young person just blossoming into womanhood is compared in our text to a primitive sunset. We are not called upon to mourn the loss of an aged pilgrim, bowed down upon his staff, but that of a young lady who had just reached maturity. I refer you, my dear friends, to the Bible for comfort and consolation. We are not like the infidels or unbelievers without hope. If ye have faith in God, ye have nothing to fear. The word of God takes every Christian by the hand, as it were, and bears them up on the pinion of faith to Heaven. Let us fix our minds and hearts upon the text. Figures and images made use of in the scriptures are employed to lift our minds heavenward. The Christian life is attractive, pleasant and comforting, like the sun. The death of a Christian or a child of God is beautiful, calm and peaceful like the setting of the mighty sun in the west. The sun sets to rise again, so it is with the body of the Christian. Jesus said, 'The dead will rise again.' 'Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord.' Our sun may set at any time. Are we ready? Our departed sister was born April 18, 1877. She was baptized December 22, 1877. She became a communicant member of my church on the 25th of March, 1894. While yet a child she regularly attended Sabbath school. She was an earnest, quiet, devoted and true Christian. She was a regular attendant upon her religious duties. Having baptized her, confirmed her, and having been closely associated with her almost her entire life. She seemed almost as dear to me as one of my own family. Her life most attractive, beautiful and comforting like the sun in all his glory. She remained a member of my charge until April 1, 1899, when she connected herself with the Reformed church of Latrobe. She remained faithful until the last. After an illness of five weeks she was called to her heavenly home. She departed this life January 16, 1900. Her departure was so peaceful that her friends at her bedside scarcely knew when she was departing this life and entering the life beyond. Just like the setting of the sun, so peaceful, we scarcely know when the day is ending and the night begins. We have reasons to believe that she had been expecting an early death and was prepared for it when it came. She left a legacy to the church. This is the third legacy that has been left by members of this family. The mother and sister, who preceded her, left legacies. Being dead, she yet speaks to us through her works."

After services the deceased was interred in Hill's cemetery,

To the Sleeper.

"Oh, our darling, you have left us,
You have left us, oh, so lone,
And the cold, dark waves of sorrow
Have engulfed our happy home.

"Thou wast all that's grand and noble,
Thou was ever good and true;
All that makes thy sex endearing,
Centered all dear love, in you.

"But amid the poignant anguish
Of our hearts, all wrung with grief,
Comes a whisper from the shadows—
Comes with healing and relief.

"And its sweet and loving cadence,
Freighted deep with holy love,
Bears to us the sweet assurance,
That for us you wait above."

THE DEAD LAWYER.

Account of the Death of District Attorney I. E. Lauffer, Which Occurred Dec. 24, 1890, Together With Some Beautiful Tributes.

Another name is stricken from the list of attorneys, and a Bar popular for the brilliancy of its members, mourns the loss of a shining light. At two o'clock this morning, December 24, District Attorney I. E. Lauffer breathed his last. His death was not unexpected, as the disease was of such a character as to leave little, if any, room for hope. We have said that he was dying, and our readers, no doubt, expected the end. It has come and overshadowed, with a cloud of grief, the festivities of the usual Christmas joys.

I. E. Lauffer was born Jan. 3, 1860, near Murraysville, Westmoreland county, and was a son of Joseph and Esther (Berlin) Lauffer. His early life was spent on his father's farm. Entering the common schools he soon manifested a desire to learn, and not content with the advantages they afforded, he expressed a desire to attend higher institutions of learning.

When Professor G. H. Hugus, our present superintendent, took charge of the Delmont academy, Mr. Lauffer, then a mere boy, walked from his father's home to Delmont, a distance of four miles, to attend school. He had the energy that wins.

He continued his studies and naturally drifted into teaching. He was a most successful teacher and soon made his mark in that calling. He was the principal of the Ludwick schools and a teacher in the seminary. Coming to choose a profession he selected law and became a student in the office of Judge James A. Hunter. He was most fortunate in making this selection, and we feel that his distinguished preceptor felt honored in his pupil. Permit us to say that Judge Hunter and his most excellent wife became attached to him and learned to love him as a son and none were more attentive to him on his dying bed. We can assure them that their love was reciprocated, as the deceased often spoke to us of their kindness.

Five years ago, in 1885, he was admitted to the bar and clients seemed to be waiting for the event. He soon gained a large practice. He was a natural lawyer. Common sense is the most powerful element in his profession and he worshipped at its shrine. He was always equal to the occasion.

In 1889, he was the choice of his party for District Attorney and a colleague on the ticket with L. W. Doty, Esq., and Mr. Lucien Clawson. It is admitted that this ticket was one of the strongest ever presented to the people of Westmoreland county, and it overwhelmingly triumphed at the polls. On the beginning of the present year, Mr. Lauffer was sworn into office and conducted the affairs of the Criminal Court in a manner highly satisfactory to the people. We feel that the public was conscious of his usefulness and it is needless for us to add any words of praise.

At the close of the November term of Criminal Court he took ill, and his illness developed into typhoid pneumonia. Every thing possible was done for him. He had the most careful nursing, and seemed on a fair way to recovery. A relapse took place and he rapidly sunk until death came to his relief at the time stated.

His funeral will take place on Friday from the residence of his father, in Franklin township. Services will be held tomorrow at 10 o'clock in Zion's Lutheran church, this place.

Every person who was accosted this morning spoke only in the kindest terms of the deceased. As already said, he was universally admired. Judge Doty was found in his study this morning by a Record man. He was greatly affected over the death of the District Attorney. Speaking of him, he said: I knew Lauffer very well and feel that his death is a public loss. I have been very intimately associated with him during the past year, and I never knew a man more faithful in the discharge of public duty. He made personal sacrifices in order to save suitors, and the county unnecessary costs. His whole ambition seemed to be to discharge his full duty. He discouraged trifling litigation, and he did not multiply bills for the purpose of increasing fees. Others may be as great in the knowledge of the law, but it will be a long time before one is found who will be more faithful or more successful in the office left vacant by his death. In addition to this he was eminently a social and kind-hearted man. He was generous in his judgment of men in extending aid to those who were needy. His sterling qualities attracted to him a large following of devoted friends. In this respect he was exceptional, the most incongruous elements uniting in his support.

EX-JUDGE HUNTER'S TRIBUTE.

Ex-Judge James A. Hunter, with whom Mr. Lauffer studied law, thus spoke in reference to the one whom he so much adored:

"District Attorney I. E. Lauffer read law with me. He was a very faithful and industrious student and seemed to drink in the law. Frequently I cautioned him not to overwork himself, but he became so wedded to his studies that a text book was never out of his hands while in the office, as well as, I have every reason to believe, in his private chamber. He was a young man of sterling integrity, as honest and as pure as the best piece of steel. There was no hypocrisy about him. He was what he was and that only. At first there was a shade of doubt in my mind as to his final success at the bar owing to his modesty and, as I thought, retiring disposition, but before he closed his studies, this thought was dissipated, knowing that labor would bring its own reward and in addition thereto when he came to the bar I was confirmed in my belief that he would prove a success in his profession.

"Mr. Lauffer was a man of the purest morals. I never knew him to say a word or do an act inconsistent with that of a Christian man. Both myself and family became warmly attached to Mr. Lauffer, whose death was most deeply deplored."

As we have met here this day to express our sorrow at the death of a young man in his best years, we feel like saying with one of our poets:

"Oh, what hadst thou to do with cruel death,
Who wast so full of life, or death with thee,
That thou shouldst die before thou hadst grown old?"

It is so natural to expect that they who are taken to their last resting place should first come nigh unto three score years and ten. Death seems to belong as little to youth as darkness to the earlier hours of day. In the forenoon of life we not only hope for the usual length of time ere the sun set, but also for the deeds and achievements to which this time gives opportunity. And our hearts are startled with sad surprise when this hope comes to an end with the announcement that "the young man is dead."

An illustration of this is now before us. Mr. J. E. Lauffer would only have been thirty-one years of age had he lived till the 3rd of next month. Only one score and ten years, instead of three score years and ten! Only three of the seven stages passed! The regret is universal that he should have died so young. Men everywhere give expression to this regret in tones that are vibrant with profoundest sympathy, and the saddest of it all comes out in so much stronger contrast as it looms up beside the pleasures which cluster about this season of the year. In a short time the remains of our departed friend will be on their way to the chill darkness of the grave, while the living are gathering to the glad festivities of Christmas.

In looking back over the life that is gone, we find much even in its one score years and ten, to admire and to hold in loving remembrance. A sturdy faithfulness to duty has always characterized the departed. They can bear testimony to this who have cared for him from his earliest days. And, even if we had not the testimony of his parents, we would be able to judge of this from his record in Greensburg. For it is not possible that such a manhood could spring from anything but a child-hood well trained, obedient and faithful. "Of thorns men do not gather figs, nor of a bramble bush gather grapes;" and of an indifferent childhood they cannot gather a real, manly character. How can a stream rise higher than its fountain? From what we know of Mr. Lauffer, we are sure that the fountain of his career was high up in the sphere of piety and prayer, and as near to a life in Christ as the hands of a Christian parental example and an early consecration to God could lift him.

He was faithful as a student in the academies at Delmont and Murraryville, where he received his preliminary training for the work of coming years. Of this we have evidence in his excellent mental training. His insight into the varied problems of his profession was clear; and this indicates the highest ability, if Carlyle's saying is correct, that "insight is power." A stranger could easily have misjudged him. His appearance was of extreme modesty, and, in disposition, he was rather retiring. But back of that quiet exterior, was a mind as strong as the unseen current that flashes its message from land to land. Back of it was an intelligence that lit up the subject before him as clearly as the sunbeam that drops in silence upon the earth. Back of it was a judgment as true to the right as a magnetic needle to its pole. But to this, aside from his natural gifts, he could not have attained had he been unfaithful or a sluggard, in his educational course. God had given him a good mind—excellent natural gifts, without which it would have been impossible to reach the position he held and through these he might easily have been tempted to the indolence that has ruined so many. But indolence was foreign to his character at all times; for without steady industry, he could no more have gathered the fruits that clustered about him during these last few years, than one can reap a harvest from an unsown, though fertile field. His talents were in great part those which are developed by hard work.

He was faithful as an instructor. You remember the days when he was principal of the Ludwick schools, and as teacher at the Greensburg Seminary. During that time he gave evidence of the same sterling qualities that had characterized him as a student. We know that he was very fond of children, and that the children were very fond of him. This always speaks well for a man, for children, with their quick intuitions, will only take to those in whom there is good reason for love and respect. And as a teacher, he was both respected and loved. He was respected because he stood faithful to every duty as a teacher, considering that he was responsible for the daily improvement of those who were entrusted to his care. And he was loved because he dealt with his scholars in the spirit of affectionate interest. A man gets more of life's truest blessings than that which he pays for; and what greater blessing is there than that of having the affection of those with whom one is laboring? But to receive this, one must pay for it with affection in return, and, if we judge of Mr. Lauffer by this standard, his must have been a heart of more than ordinary love and kindness. Only in this spirit can a man be truly faithful, whether it be to himself or to others; for with it he has a power that fairly lifts and impels him to the doing of his duty.

The time came that he entered upon the study of law, his chosen profession. His friends had doubts at first as to his success in this line. The quiet modesty with which he made application to his future preceptor would, in these days of general self-sufficiency, make almost anyone hesitate as to the fitness of the applicant. It is so unusual. We somehow expect everyone to sound his own praises, and to make as striking a first impression as possible. He came to his preceptor quietly; he did his work quietly; he succeeded quietly; and quietly, but with every promise of an enviable future, he took his place among a class of men of this town whom it is far from easy to compete with. A young lawyer has far to travel before he can stand beside the best of his profession here. But Mr. Lauffer was fast striding toward the front. His colleagues have admitted this. And the force that sent him forward was generated in those quiet hours of intense study under the supervision of his able preceptor.

A Tribute to the Memory of I. E. Lauffer by Rev. A. D. Potts, His Former Pastor.

Although the announcement of District Attorney Lauffer's death was not an unexpected one, yet I must confess that it truly was a sad one.

From the frequent newspaper notices relative to his condition I gathered the information that his recovery was well-nigh impossible. But now to realize that one so young, so industrious and so truly destined, humanely speaking, to achieve greatness and helpfulness is laid low in the embrace of death, is a faithful reminder that before the onward sweep of the destroying angel all mortals must sooner or later fall.

My acquaintanceship with Mr. Lauffer runs back in years of his boyhood days, and I can truthfully say that my most vivid recollections of him and his steady onward course convince me that, in honesty of purpose, integrity of character, and in nobility of soul, he was as true to all as the needle to the pole and "righteousness to the plummet." Of an unassuming disposition he nevertheless attracted the considerate attention of the many with whom he associated. There was something about him that drew one almost unconsciously near to him.

Considerateness was a chief characteristic in his general makeup. It was his principal aim to find the right path, and then to walk unswervingly along the same. He was not ashamed to seek counsel, and I remember distinctly when he came to me as his friend and former pastor, and sought what little advice I was humbly able to furnish. When he believed that he was right, no alluring or time-serving compensation was great enough to draw him aside from the path of rectitude and duty. In disposition he was as affable and kind as the most tender-hearted woman. To injure, by thought, word or deed, the lowest of earth's multitude, was the act remotest of his being. Then he was a particularly humble man. A self-bolstered popularity and pretentious worth found no place in his manly deportment.

While he was in the beginning of his public career, he likewise, was at its end. His ambitions did not fly out of the windows of vaulting success, but it led him along the humble road to be and to do good. To keep others from getting into trouble was his pre-eminent desire. He wanted all who sought his counsel to start right, in order that they might end right. Simplicity and generosity of heart made him what he was. While under my pastoral care, no one could have been more faithful, more devout, and more truth imbibing than he was. I knew him then to be noble and good. But after our separation I failed not to observe his actions and progress. I thought I saw in him an ideal young man. Had he lived, I firmly believe that he would have reached the very eminence in public life that I had sighted out for him in the coming time. An infinite wisdom, however, let fall over all my prophetic dream a dispensation that is just and good. While my heart feels sad that my young and prized friend has left us, still I bow in humble submission to Him who doeth all things well. And when the inscription in the granite block that may mark the resting place of his earthly remains, has been effaced by the corroding finger of time's elements, and even when the recording tablet itself has mouldered into dust, there will remain, in the hearts and memories of his friends, the imperishable epitaph, "I. E. Lauffer, the honorable, the useful, the upright, and the Christian young man."

Touching Words by His Honor Judge Doty.

Upon the opening of the present term of court His Honor Judge Doty, before proceeding to the consideration of other matters, referred feelingly to the death of District Attorney Lauffer. Addressing himself to the grand jury he said:

"It is less than three months since our last charge to the grand jury, and in that brief time great and important events have occurred. The district attorney, chosen by the people of the county, was then in full life and apparent health. Now more than a month has already elapsed since he was consigned to his last resting place in the quiet churchyard in the beautiful valley he loved so well. We cannot allow this occasion to pass without adverting to the fact of his death, and without acknowledging in a public manner our appreciation of the value of his services while living. While he occupied this quas-judicial position we had every opportunity to observe his conduct, and while in some respects he was an comprehensible and unique character, we believe we learned to know him well, and we are sure we appreciated his services. His mainspring of action was a desire to faithfully discharge the duties of his office. He was not mercenary, or he would have multiplied bills in order to increase the revenues of the office. He was faithful to the court and to his client, and withal recognized the character and dignity of the office he held and refused to press for a conviction, in his judgment, was not fully justified by the evidence. He manifested ability and exhibited extraordinary energy and patience in the performance of the trying duties of his office. If he showed any weakness at all, it proceeded from a naturally amiable disposition and kindness of heart. He died young, but lived long enough to accomplish much good and to give promise of still greater usefulness in the future. The little world in which he lived paused a moment when Lauffer died, and unusual sympathy and regret were heard on every side. But the times are too busy to long pause. Practical duties demand the attention of living men. No one is absolutely essential in any sphere of activity. We take our turn and play our part and move on to make room for others pressing after."

ADDITIONAL BIOGRAPHY OF JOSEPH A. LAUFFER FROM ANOTHER SOURCE.

Joseph A. Lauffer, Chairman of the Lauffer History Publication Committee, is one of Greater Greensburg's leading business men. His store is located on West Second Street, near the corner of Mill street. This store is favorably situated in a residence portion of the city, and enjoys the patronage of a number of Greensburg citizens, who reside in that immediate locality, as well as the good will and trade of many in other parts of Greensburg, and from the country districts.

The stock of goods kept by Mr. Lauffer consists of what is usually termed "general merchandise," embracing groceries, dry goods, hardware and, in fact, about everything a household requires. In the selection of his stock Mr. Lauffer is guided by the light of an ample experience, and he aims to keep what the people need, and to keep a first quality of goods, which he sells at a fair and equitable price.

In addition to these principles, he cherishes and is governed by the greater principles embodied in the Golden Rule, by which his patrons have learned that they can always rely upon honest and courteous treatment.

That the above is the true foundation of a successful business career, has been frequently demonstrated, and the success of Mr. Lauffer as a merchant is but another instance of the truth.

His first experience in merchandising was in South Greensburg, where he embarked upon the sea of enterprise in 1891. After four years he came to Greensburg and leased the old Blythe stand, on Maple avenue.

When contemplating leasing this room Mr. Lauffer's friends did what they could to discourage the venture, pointing out the fact that others had failed to succeed in that location. Despite these well-meant efforts, however, he leased the room, which he successfully occupied for four years. He then leased the store room in the Pollins building, corner of Mill and Second streets.

This room had also been looked upon as an unfortunate point, but during the seven years it was occupied by Mr. Lauffer he enjoyed a large and lucrative patronage.

Having a justifiable ambition to own property, Mr. Lauffer purchased his present residence, and, after fitting up two rooms for store purposes, he removed thereto on April 1st of the present year. The present arrangements are but temporary in character, as it is his purpose to materially improve his present facilities.

In addition to the business of merchant, Mr. Lauffer is engaged in the poultry business. He is an ardent advocate of improved breeding, and he keeps only the best varieties of fowls, furnishing eggs for setting to many people in the country and elsewhere.

He also furnishes canary birds of the best quality, and has seven pairs of breeders of those known to fanciers as St. Andreasburg. These birds are the best known, and those kept by Mr. Lauffer are the purest thoroughbreds, imported from Germany. Prices on these birds can be had on application.

The sacred writer says: "A good name is better than precious ointment," and many of our citizens have ample cause to entertain a justifiable pride in the name they have inherited from their ancestors. We recently saw a history of the Lauffer family, and from which we learn that it is closely interwoven with the history of our country for a long period of time. It is a name that seems to have always been synonymous with good citizenship, history and patriotism, and while this work of the Lauffer historian is of special interest to those who have descended from that branch, there is much therein that is of interest to all.

Joseph A. Lauffer, of whom we write, was born in Penn township, near Harrison City. His only recollection of man's greatest friend—his mother—is of sitting on her knee, before an old-fashioned wood fire. She died when he was but four years of age. His father married again, securing an estimable lady for his wife, who proved a model step-mother to her sister's motherless child. The love of this good woman was fully returned, and the bond of sympathy between the step-mother and orphan became as strong as links of steel, and as lasting as time. Joseph attended the country school, and assisted his father on the farm. He afterwards graduated in a high school and was thus prepared to step out into the world, qualified for any ordinary business pursuit.

The excellent woman who supplied a mother's place taught him to love the things that are good, and carefully guided his young feet along the paths of righteousness. This training, together with the example of an upright father, instilled within him the virtues that have characterized his life, and have enabled him to win and retain many friends.

Mr. Lauffer is a staunch Republican in politics, and an active member of the First Reformed church of Greensburg.

When visiting in the vicinity of Latrobe he met Miss Elizabeth C. Bridenthal, daughter of Mr. Harry A. Bridenthal, the result of which meeting was a wedding, and it seems that Mr. Lauffer's lucky star was in the ascendancy, as he secured a prize in the matrimonial lottery, and a wife who proved herself a loyal helpmate in every sense of the term. They have one child, a bright little girl, Grace Mildred.

After their marriage permit us to say, Mrs. Lauffer took an extensive hand in helping to gather the Lauffer history as it now is; for two years they gave of their time and close attention to the work.

Mr. Lauffer is an active member in the church of which he is a member, and has creditably filled a number of offices therein. He is also closely identified with the Sabbath school and is a regular attendant, seldom missing a day. As a citizen and neighbor he is respected by all who have the pleasure of his acquaintance, and that his life and conduct fully come up to the high standard set by his ancestors is a fact beyond dispute.

It gives us pleasure to be able to speak well of a gentleman who is perfectly worthy of the highest eulogy we might write.

HOW WE LEARNED OF OUR WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA ANCESTORS.

While sitting at my desk at my place of business, W. R. Lawfer & Co., Allentown, Pa., July 5th, 1902, a friend of mine came to me and handed me the "North American" published at Philadelphia, July 5th, 1902, containing the picture of My Name Sake the "Centenarian John Lauffer," of Harrison City, Pennsylvania. I at once noticed the resemblance of this old gentleman to that of my Grand Father Jacob Lawfer. I took the paper, covered the names and showed it to my uncle Jacob A. Lawfer, and asked him, who it looked like. He at once said it look like his father, who was my Grand Father. Being desirous of knowing more of our western relatives of whom I had often heard my father W. R. Lawfer speak, I addressed a letter to Rcv. Stanley Krebs, of Greensburg, Pa., formerly of Allentown, Pa., who informed me that he had a number of "Lawfers" belonging to his Reformed congregation. I addressed a letter to Mr. Joseph A. Lauffer, Greensburg, Pa., who mailed me a history of the "Lauffers," which had been prepared for their gathering, which was held July 4th, 1902. I became very much interested, which led to more correspondence and was followed by my visiting Greensburg, Pa., several months later, where we were furnishing a new theatre for Messrs. Good & Son. I met the Centenarian John Lauffer at his home in Harrison City in company with Dr. Charles A. Lauffer, Joseph A. Lauffer and Lawyer Lauffer. I was very much pleased with the conversation I had with our old relative, and shall never forget; --when he was asked by his daughter, who he thought I was, he remarked, "Well it looks like a Lauffer and I suppose he is one of our Eastern relatives." After asking him what kind of people these Western Pennsylvania Lauffers were, he said, "well they have always been able to keep out of jail," which remark brought forth a hearty laugh from all of us. His story of his trip to Easton, where he drove cattle to Philadelphia, where he went to see the ships, and to visit the Old Homestead; near the Stone church where he went to see his Uncle Peter,—was very interesting and will never be forgotten by the writer, who was much entertained by his way of stating things—as they happened about eighty odd years before. Several weeks later the writer and his wife again visited this Renowned gentleman and were much pleased with his anecdotes and his remarkable memory.

His daughter, who kept house for him, certainly was a great comfort to her father.

PETER LAUFER BRANCH.

Peter Laufer, the Revolutionary Shoe-maker, was born Oct. 18, 1752, and died July 21, 1830. He is interred at Old Stone Church, near Siegfreids, Pa., Allen Twp., Northampton Co.

He lived in troublous times, for it is said that it was not safe to sleep in the house at night, for fear of the Indians. The settlers had to go to the block house at Howersville.

When his father Christian, and all his brothers and sisters emigrated into Westmoreland Co., he alone remained in Northampton Co. Tradition has it that he married a wife who refused to cross the Mountains.

The Old Homestead is owned by a descendant of his named Jacob P. Laufer, who has in his possession the old deeds and wills of the Peter Laufer family. By courtesy of Jacob P. Laufer we append the original Title to the Peter Laufer farm.

To All to Whom These Presents Shall Come, Greeting;

While searching the Archives of the Pennsylvania Historical Society, 13th and Locust, Philadelphia, we discovered the name of Peter Laufer:

Wills of Northampton County, Page 739. We learn that the executors of the Estate of David Mersch were George Herzach and Peter Laufer.

In Pennsylvania Archives Vol. 19, Third series, Page 149, under Federal Taxes of Moore Twp., Northampton Co., for 1785, we learn that Peter Laufer owned 150 acres of land, two horses, two cattle, and no sheep. His tax was 15 shillings, 5 pence.

Grandmother Scholl tells us that her father (Peter Laufer Jr.) and grandfather (Peter Laufer, the shoemaker,) were not large men but squarely built, solid men weighing about 160 and 170 pounds. She remembers how her grandfather wound up the clock every morning when he got up, before coming to breakfast. One morning he was late in coming to breakfast. His son went to see why he did not come. He found him unable to talk, lying in bed. He motioned to his son to go to wind the clock. He laid sick in bed for a week. It was harvest time. And as he lay sick in bed, his granddaughter (Grand mother Scholl) with a fly brush made of paper, kept the flies from him, and gave him drinks. The men and women were all at work in the harvest fields. She thinks she was about eighty years old when she thus cared for her grandfather.

She remembers her grandfather's shoemaker bench. She was around when he made shoes. She would meddle with his tools, and she recalls his telling her to let things alone.

Grandmother Scholl remembers that the father of her grandfather was Christian Laufer. And she as well as Nathan of Broadheadsville, and Jacob P. Laufer of the Old Homestead, have it by tradition that Father Christian and his sons and daughters went westward to near Pittsburg, and that Peter remained East.

Kleppinger's Fort was located near Petersville Church, east from the Laufer Homestead. Families went to this or other nearby forts every night, for in those days people were stolen by the Indians and houses were burned.

Grandmother Scholl remembers the spinning, turning the spinning wheel or reel a whole day, when you would like to sled ride, or go fishing, was an evil of the olden day. The Laufers sent their yarn to the weavers and their cloth to the fullers. In fulling the cloth, she recalls that soap was used. The cloth was then colored brown. When thus dyed it made fine cloth for dresses.

Her father was very fond of bees, of which he had about seventy. He wove basket hives out of straw for them. Deiter his neighbor, had eighty. Both tried to reach one hundred. It was said in those days that a person could not have one hundred bees together. As their number increased, they commenced going back, neither reached one hundred. In those days cane sugar was not used by the settlers, and beet sugar had not been introduced. For sweet, they were dependant upon honey, which was used freely for all purposes.

They rendered their honey in a big iron kettle. They made it hot and strained it out through a colander. The honey thus rendered was set aside in crocks. The part that did not go through the colander, was returned to the kettle. Water was added and it was boiled. It was again put through the colander. The filtrate was put in a keg or barrel and set aside to ferment. The part that remained in the colander this second time, was returned to the kettle and purified as wax. They had a way of gathering the wax as follows: as the water boiled the wax came to the surface; the hands were made wet in cold water and placed on the surface of the water, which caused the wax to adhere to the fingers. It was then rubbed off the hands and the hands again dipped in cold water.

The filtrate in the keg would ripen in a year's time. It made a drink much relished by her father and grand father, says Grandmother Scholl. In her words it was "sehr stark." The German name for this drink is Meticulum.

We are informed that Peter Laufer made shoes for Washington's army, during the three years of his enlistment. He was a shoemaker by trade, and added to this fact, he was too small to bear arms, being below the average in stature. Also, at a time when the Southern and New England Colonies gave nothing to support the Continental Government, for the prosecution of the war for Independence, he was one of the Pennsylvania German farmers that contributed to his utmost to the success of Liberty's cause.

The family of Peter Laufer consisted of three sons and five daughters. His wife's name was Magdalena Susanna Grosher.

WM. R. LAUFFER.

The central figure among the eastern descendants of Christian Lauffer, the Pioneer, is the late Wm. R. Lawfer, of Allentown. The day he was buried, all the stores of that city closed their doors, a mark of respect shown to no other citizen of Allentown.

"The Lehigh Register", of Allentown, Pa., under date of Sept. 11, 1900, published a character sketch of Wm. R. Lawfer, which we reproduce in full.

We follow it with a biographical sketch of his son, John N. Lawfer, taken from Lehigh Valley biographies.

The death of William R. Lawfer removes a man who for upwards of thirty years was prominently identified with everything that tended toward the material and industrial progress and advancement of this city. One of its foremost merchants, he was ever keenly alive to everything that contributed to the city's welfare and prosperity. And in all this he was never a mere negative factor; a man who simply stood afar off and reaped where others sowed. He contributed amply from his resources and his advice was always eagerly sought and followed. He early saw the possibilities for shrewd financial investments in this city and with his trained foresight, shrewd commonsense and business perspicacity he forecasted the direction of the city's development and expansion and he backed his faith with his money and to him more than to anyone else the development of the northern part of Allentown in the vicinity of the old fair grounds is due. His courage and energy inaugurated a movement and set a pace which has been followed since by scores of others who reaped rich harvests where he first led the way.

The man may be forgotten, but the part he played in the expansion of this city will long be remembered, and one of its most beautiful sections, adorned with handsome and cosy residences, will ever stand a monument to his courage, faith and energy. He advanced where others faltered; he had faith where others doubted, and he had zeal, where others flagged.

As a mercantile man his fame was by no means local. Although much of the burden of the work of directing the affairs of his vast establishment, one of the largest in the Lehigh Valley, was taken off his shoulders during the later years of his life by his sons and brothers, yet he was daily in his office guiding, advising and directing its intricate affairs with a clear head and a steady hand. He started in business in a small way, but he kept pace with the spirit of the age and never lagged behind. Enterprising, but never rash, daring but never reckless, and steering clear of all those devices and treacherous shoals which point the way to sudden riches only to end in hopeless disaster, and conducting his business on sound, safe and conservative methods, he lived to see himself at the head of one of the largest establishments of its kind in Eastern Pennsylvania.

He was a many-sided man and he had deep religious convictions. In furthering the cause of his faith he showed the same zeal, devotion and singleness of purpose which always characterized him in whatsoever he undertook. In his death the Reformed Church sustains a heavy loss and he will be keenly missed in the councils of that denomination. He was not a christian who only gave lip service, but his purse kept pace with his counsel and his money gave the stamp of approval to what his conscience advised.

An institution dear to his heart was Bethany Orphans' Home at Womelsdorf. He was one of its trustees and was one of its Board of Managers. So highly were his labors appreciated by his colleagues that at the recent celebration of Orphans' Home Day they sent a special message of sympathy, appreciation and regard to their late co-worker. Perhaps nothing in Mr. Lawfer's long and active career gave him so much pleasure and gratification as that message of esteem and remembrance. He was one of the pillars of the institution and the originator in this section of those annual excursions to the home, which brought thousands of people in contact with this noble specimen of christian charity and philanthropy on the part of the Reformed Church, and which brought thousands of dollars into the treasury of the institution. He was also greatly interested in our local Young Men's Christian Association.

Always a man of strong and vigorous physique, which neither age nor the manifold duties and cares inseparable from his large business seemed able to impair, the sudden death of his wife, several years ago, was a blow from which he never recovered.

JOHN N. LAWLER, Merchant, Allentown, Pa.

"JOHN S. LAWLER AND FAMILY, EMILY M. LAWLER, HAROLD S. LAWLER, WM. R. LAWLER."

From that time on his physical powers commenced to wane and he never afterwards was the same man.

In his domestic and social relations he fulfilled all the requirements of a loving husband and a kind and indulgent father and a neighbor and citizen who never forfeited the respect and esteem of his fellow citizens. He was liberal in his contributions to charity, although unostentatious in all his philanthropic work. He was successful because he deserved success. Honest and upright in all his dealings, a keen judge of men and motives, a merchant of unswerving integrity and upright in his walk in the community in which he labored for so many years, the city has been the better for his living and is the poorer for his death.

JOHN N. LAWFER.

John N. Lawfer, throughout the period of his business career actively and prominently connected with one of the leading department stores, W. R. Lawfer & Co., of Allentown, was born in Kreidersville, Northampton county, Pennsylvania, February 9, 1860, and is an honored representative of one of the old American families, whose connection with the new world dates back to the seventeenth century.

His great-grandfather was Peter Lawfer, and his grandparents were Jacob and Leah (Steckel) Lawfer, natives of Northampton county, Pennsylvania. Jacob Lawfer was a farmer by occupation, and conducted his operations for many years on the old family homestead in Moore township, Northampton county, Pennsylvania. Among the children born to him was a son, William R. Lawfer.

William R. Lawfer, father of John N. Lawfer, was born August 5, 1838, on the old homestead in Moore township, Northampton county, died at Allentown, Pennsylvania, September 14, 1900, and his remains were interred in Fairview Cemetery, Allentown. The days of William R. Lawfer's boyhood and youth were passed in the usual manner of farmer lads. He assisted in the labors for which his age and strength fitted him, and attended the common schools until thirteen years of age, when he entered upon his business career as a clerk in the store of his uncle, Aaron Steckel, with whom he remained for six months. He was employed by Stephen Raeder, of Bath, Pennsylvania, in the spring of 1851, and continued in that position until the business was sold, after which he remained with Flick & Smock, successors of his former employer, for four years. Desirous then of enjoying better educational privileges than had previously been afforded him, he became a pupil in the select school taught by Dr. Thomas C. Apple, and subsequently continued his studies in the Phillip Lehman select school, at Easton, Pennsylvania, taught by John H. Oliver. Resuming his place in the business world, he was employed in the general store of Joseph Wanamaker, (a relative of John Wanamaker, the famous Philadelphia and New York merchant), in Kreidersville, Pennsylvania, and afterwards by A. H. and Amos Hahn, in Bath, with whom he continued for eight years. During the year 1865-66 he was a salesman in the store of Hon. Joseph Laubach, Stemton, Pennsylvania, and in the latter named year became a resident of Allentown and entered into partnership with W. R. Steckel under the firm style of Lawfer & Steckel. They carried a large stock of dry goods and groceries, and the business was continued by the original partners until 1874, when Mr. Steckel disposed of his interest to George W. Hartzell, and in 1876 Mr. Hartzell was succeeded by Jacob Lawfer, a brother of William R. Lawfer. At the expiration of three years time the sons of William R. Lawfer—J. Harry, John N. and Alvin W.—entered the firm. They conducted an extensive department store, covering acres of floor space, which is still one of the leading mercantile enterprises of the city (Mr. Lawfer was a director in the Allentown National Bank, a member of the board of trustees of the Allentown College for Women, and one of the charter members of the Allentown Hospital, and was interested in all matters calculated to advance the welfare of the community. He was very active in religious and benevolent work, held membership in the Zion Reformed Church, represented the Congregation as delegate elder at meetings of classes and synod, and also served as superintendent of the Sunday school connected therewith for many years. He was a member of the board of directors of the Heibany

Orphan Home of the Reformed Church, at Womelsdorf, Berks county, Pennsylvania.

In 1857 William R. Lawfer was united in marriage to Miss Hannah Kleppinger, a daughter of John Kleppinger, a prominent and successful farmer near Siegfried's Bridge, Northampton Co., Pennsylvania.

John N. Lawfer, son of William R. and Hannah (Kleppinger) Lawfer, was reared in Allentown, Pennsylvania, acquired a knowledge of the rudimentary branches of study in its public schools, later was a student at Muhlenberg College, and completed his education at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pennsylvania. He received his business training in his father's store, and after serving in the capacity of salesman for some time was admitted to a partnership. Mr. Lawfer, who is clear-headed, enterprising and discriminating in his business methods, became quickly recognized as a progressive merchant, and his keen sagacity and strong purpose, which were salient elements in his career, combined with strict integrity won for him a prominent place in the commercial circles of Allentown, where his word is considered as good as his bond. The enterprise with which he is connected is conducted along modern business lines, and its great increase in trade during recent years is in a large measure due to the capable and efficient efforts of John N. Lawfer. Aside from his extensive business interests, Mr. Lawfer devotes considerable of his time and means to benevolent work more particularly in behalf of orphans, being an active and potent factor in the success of the Bethany Orphan Home of the Reformed church, at Womelsdorf, Berks county, with which his father was for many years actively identified.

He is also a member of the board of trustees of the Phoebe Deconess and Old Folks Home of Allentown. He is a member of St. John's Reformed church, and served in its board for a number of years. Mr. Lawfer enjoys the acquaintance of a wide circle of friends, who admire him for his many excellent characteristics, and he and his family occupy an enviable position in the social life of Allentown. Mr. Lawfer so closely resembled his father in looks, disposition and physique that he was often taken for his brother.

John N. Lawfer was married to Miss Irene C. Saeger, daughter of Henry J. Saeger, and they became the parents of five children: Emily M., Charles H., who died in infancy; Harold S., Marian S., who also died in infancy; and William R. Lawfer. Mr. Lawfer is a faithful and devoted husband, a kind and indulgent father, and their home is noted for the utmost hospitality.

RACHEL LAUFER

Rachel, eldest of the five daughters of Peter, the Revolutionary shoemaker, was married to Henry Renner. He had two daughters, Julia married to a Bartholomew and Pollie married to a Stewart. Tradition has it that they moved to the vicinity of Meadville, Pa. Their location is not known to grandmother Scholl, nor Jacob P. Laufer, who have supplied us with most of the data, as to the daughters of Old Peter.

ELIZABETH LAUFER.

Elizabeth Lawfer, daughter of Peter, the Revolutionary shoemaker, was married to Matheus Greber. She was born November 14, 1779, and died November 14, 1859, aged 79 years. Adam Laufer was a tailor by occupation; he also worked a small farm while living near Petersville, Northampton Co., Pa. In the year 1828 he removed into Monroe Co., and purchased a tract of timber land in the west end of the county, near Pleasant Valley post office. While he worked at his trade, his sons did some farming and lumbering; they used up a good deal of the lumber in making flour and whiskey barrels, which were much in demand at that time. Some years later, he and three of his sons—Joseph, Samuel and Charles—bought some timber land above the Pocono Mountains, where they operated a saw-mill for some years. After selling this property, he and the younger sons—Peter, Henry and Jonas—ran the farm, he working at his trade until the death of his wife. About this time he sold the home stead to Dr. Heubner, and then made his home with Joseph, his eldest son, until the time of his death.

Charles Laufer, son of Adam, son of Peter, the Revolutionary Shoemaker, born Jan. 10, 1818, died in Broadheadsville, Monroe Co., Pa., Jan. 23, 1902, aged 84 years, and 13 days. He was one of the pioneer settlers of the west end of Monroe County.

By occupation he was a farmer. He was married in Jan., 1842, to Catharine Shupp, daughter of George and Susannah Shupp; about the same time he purchased sixty-six acres of land from Joseph Teel, near the post office at Broadheadsville, about twenty acres being cleared, and having on it a small one and a half story stone house, with one room below and one upstairs, and a small log barn. On this place he and his wife went to work, clearing several acres each year, until all was cleared. They put up new buildings, and improved the place in every respect. More acres were added, until it became one of the finest farms in the western end of the county. He worked the farm until within a few years of his wife's death, when he sold the homestead to his son, Joseph, and built himself a new home in the village of Broadheadsville, in which he lived till the time of his death.

In January, 1865, he and his son-in-law, John Wagner, bought the large grist-mill near Broadheadsville, known as the Hufsmith Mill, which they operated, doing business in the name of Laufer & Wagner, doing a large business in flour, feed, grain and lumber. April 1, 1873, he sold his interest in the mill property to his son, Nathan Laufer.

He was an ardent member of the Reformed church, which he liberally supported during his entire life. His life was that of a noble Christian gentleman, and his death that of a faithful follower of Christ. Kind, gentle and generous, his counsel was sought by old and young; and his sterling Christian uprightness influenced many to the better course. He was a regular attendant at all services, and was an office bearer for many years.

His health was remarkable, until the fall preceding his death, when he began to fail. There was no pain nor suffering, he just grew weaker each day, until four days prior to his death.

In his home all were welcomed, and there he dispensed old-fashioned hospitality. He was interred in the Broadheadsville cemetery by the side of his beloved wife, who preceded him home fifteen years. His surviving children were: Charles, Mrs. Annie Wagner, Mrs. Jeremiah Shafer, of Allentown; George and Jacob, of Lehigh; Nathan and Joseph, of Broadheadsville.

Henry Laufer, son of Adam, son of Peter, the Revolutionary Shoemaker, died Dec. 31, 1905, aged 80 years, five months, one day. He expired at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. John Haney, of Saylorsburg, with whom he made his home during the past eight years. He was a successful farmer in Monroe county, and retired fifteen years ago. The day preceding his death, while waiting his turn in a barber shop, he was stricken with paralysis, and had to be removed home in a carriage. Mr. Laufer was a consistent member of the Reformed church. Interment at Broadheadsville, Pa. He is survived by a son and three daughters: Stewart Laufer of Bath; Mrs. Haney and Miss Emma Laufer, of Saylorsburg; and Mrs. Wolfe, wife of Dr. Horace Wolf, of Providence, R. I.

Rev. Calvin W. Laufer, the recent pastor of the Steinway Reformed Church, Steinway, L. I., and at present pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, West Hoboken, N. J., is a son of Nathan Laufer, of Broadheadsville, Pa.; born April 6, 1876. He had a strenuous time preparing himself for the ministry, and enthusiasm and marked industry have characterized his labors since.

"At the age of seventeen he had prepared himself to teach. The law of Pennsylvania, however, precluded his teaching at that age. Nevertheless, through the 'age blindness' of the local Board of Education, he was appointed a public school teacher.

"His salary was $23 per month. The school in which he taught was four and a half miles from his home. That distance he walked twice a day, even during the cold winters of 1901 and 1902. Meanwhile his evenings were devoted to Latin and Greek, under the direction of his pastor, Rev. S. F. Laury, and at the end of the first winter he had mastered three books of Cæsar and two books of Xenophon's "Anabasis." Continuing to teach for another winter and devoting his spare time to study, he graduated from the Fairview Academy at Broadheadsville in the spring of 1903, and received a gold medal for scholarship.

"In the fall of 1893 he entered college with only $93 in his purse, and in his heart a profound faith in God—determined to win at any price. While in college he played the organ in one of the local churches, gave instruction on the piano to as many as eighteen pupils a week, conducted a choral class, and occasionally wrote verses for the local papers. He graduated from Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., in 1897, winning the senior prize debate and $50 in gold.

"In September, 1897, he entered Union Theological Seminary, and graduated from it in 1900. During his course there he connected himself, for financial reasons, with Rev. Dr. Schauflier in missionary work in the slums, and he became associated with the Rev. Dr. A. H. McKinny, now of Newark, but then pastor of Olivet Church, New York City.

The membership tripled during the five years of his pastorate at Steinway; a membership of only 85 when he took charge, and the Sunday School attendance grew from 275 to 500.
